Introduction

THE primary object of the publishers of the Canadian Trade Index is to provide buyers and sellers of Canada and other countries with an authoritative directory of all products manufactured in Canada and the names of the firms making them. It includes a complete list of Canadian manufacturers having more than a local distribution for their products, irrespective of membership in the Canadian Manufacturers' Association. Approximately eight thousand firms are listed. The names and addresses of companies wholly-owned by the Crown are to be found in the alphabetical section.

This edition of the Index includes the following features: an alphabetical directory of over eight thousand Canadian manufacturers with addresses, branches, export representatives, trade marks and brands; a directory of Canadian manufacturers classified according to the products made; a directory of exporters of agricultural produce and allied lines; an export section giving details of Government services with a Foreword by The Honourable James A. MacKinnon, Minister of Trade and Commerce, Ottawa; an alphabetical list in French of the headings in the classified section with parallel English; an alphabetical list of Spanish (limited edition) of headings in the classified section with parallel English.

As a result of wartime controls the manufacture of a number of civilian products has been restricted or discontinued. It was decided, however, to leave the question of listing these products to the decision of individual firms and it will be found that most of the classifications have been retained. These firms have the experience and equipment to manufacture and supply the products to domestic and export markets when industrial and trade controls are relaxed.

Owing to the detailed classification and the numerous advertisements, prospective purchasers are generally in a position to get in direct contact with manufacturers of the goods desired, but where information regarding specialized lines is required the gratuitous service of the Commercial Intelligence Department of the Association is offered. It is suggested that importers abroad should first communicate with Canadian Government Trade Commissioners in their respective territories. Their names are listed on pages 172 and 173 of the Export Section. Representatives of overseas firms visiting Canada are invited to call at the Head Office of the Association where they will be given every possible assistance.

The Index is kept up to date by an annual revision, and the past year has been spent in checking and revising names, addresses, and classifications. Each manufacturer is sent a revising form on which any changes in firm names or products are reported. Additional information is received from Government departments, mercantile reports, and our ten offices across Canada. Classifications are generally established by consultation with manufacturers and experts in various industries.

Following is a short summary of the various changes in the 1944 edition:

New Firms added	234	Changes of address	120
Firms deleted	224	New classifications	53
Changes of name	66	Classifications deleted	74
Changes of location	53	Classifications changed	58

The publishers wish to thank all organizations, government departments, and the manufacturers who have so kindly aided by furnishing the information on which the book is based.

From the SUB-ARCTIC to the TROPICS

THE building of the Alaska Highway, now largely accomplished, but once described as "an engineering monstrosity impossible of completion", required that practically all labour and equipment be brought from distant centres.

But financial equipment was already there at the two working bases—Dawson Creek, B.C., and White Horse, Y.T., where The Canadian Bank of Commerce had long-established branches able to provide all the banking services required.

In far-off Trinidad the Port of Spain branch of the Bank provided similar banking services for the builders of a great new naval base there.

Thus from the Sub-Arctic to the Tropics runs this Bank's network of vital war services, extending throughout and across Canada, to New York and the Pacific Coast centres of the United States and supplemented by the facilities of its correspondents in all major bases of the United Nations.

This banking service, which has been so valuable on such widely-separated projects as the Alaska Highway and the Trinidad naval base, is available to all classes, including farmers, workmen, dealers and industrialists, wherever this Bank is represented.

The

POST-WAR

Back Log

■ A well-nigh insatiable demand for consumer goods has been developing during the past four years of war, a demand subject to military priorities and wartime policies and therefore held in abeyance.

With the return of peace with victory such restrictions will be removed and an eager market will open up for consumer goods such as the Canadian public need and have needed so long. Home furnishings . . . wearing apparel . . . radio sets . . . refrigerators . . . motor cars—a thousand and one items of normal need will be free for manufacture and sale.

The greater portion of Canada's war expenditure involved goods produced and services rendered within the boundaries of the Dominion. The money thus spent is still in the country. By circulating this money in the channels of business the people of Canada will be enabled to revive their own peace-time industries and provide employment for themselves.

In this process of reorganization in the post-war period Imperial Bank of Canada will play its part. We are confident that Canadians will maintain their habits of thrift and enterprise, and that peace with victory will bring renewed opportunities for prosperity.

Established 1832

GENERAL OFFICE—TORONTO

The
Canadian Manufacturers' Association
Incorporated

The Canadian Manufacturers' Association was incorporated by Act of Parliament in 1902.

OBJECTS

The objects of the Association are to promote Canadian industries and to further the interests of Canadian manufacturers and exporters, and to render such services and assistance to the members of the Association, and to manufacturers and exporters generally, as the Association shall deem advisable from time to time.

SERVICES

In war most of the services listed below are more in demand than ever. War and war conditions have brought many new problems arising out of adapting the industrial system of the country to new production, locating new sources of raw materials and manufactured goods, finding new markets, complying with new regulations in existing markets, exchange control and import restrictions, employer and employee relations, shipping and insurance, legal and taxation difficulties, scientific and industrial research, priorities and control of materials.

Transportation Department— Deals with and watches developments in all matters affecting Transportation by Air, Highway, Inland Water, Ocean, Rail, Telegraph or Telephone. Acts for or advises members respecting Claims, Classifications, Contracts, Documents, Legislation, Rates, Regulations, Rules or Services pertaining to the transportation of Communications, Goods, Mail or Passengers. Supplies information on control of oil and gasoline.

Tariff Department— Interpretation of Canadian Customs Tariff; information in regard to tariffs of all civilized countries; questions of value for duty; assistance in Customs drawback claims and refunds; advice in regard to invoices; preparation of cases for the Tariff Board; assistance in the matter of needed tariff changes; advice on sales and excise tax problems. Supplies information on price control, export permits, trading with the enemy, import licensing requirements of other countries and foreign exchange control.

Insurance Department— Studies insurance legislation, including war risk insurance and bombardment insurance, gives confidential advice on the standing of insurance companies, information on group insurance and pension schemes, and co-operates with other organizations in fire prevention and insurance matters in general.

Legal Department— Maintains a watching brief on all Canadian legislation, receives copies of all Bills introduced in Federal and Provincial legislatures, studies the measures proposed, and assists the Legislation Committee in deciding and carrying out the policies of the Association. Deals with problems arising under the Income War Tax Act, the Excess Profits Tax Act and numerous regulations issued under the War Measures Act.

Commercial Intelligence Department— Information re articles made in Canada; names of manufacturers of articles; information re agencies and export connections; sources of supplies of raw materials; Government regulations re manufacturers; translations of foreign correspondence; classified lists of manufacturers; commercial statistics and trade information; commercial reports on overseas firms; priorities and controls; war restrictions on manufacturing; problems of war production.

The Trade Sections Department supplies a secretarial and organizing service to any group of manufacturers who may desire to organize along lines of production and for the purpose of dealing with common problems incidental to any trade.

Industrial Relations Department— Studies various questions arising out of relations between employers and employees. Among the more important of these are Workmen's Compensation, Old Age Pensions, Hours of Work, Unemployment Insurance, Conciliation and Arbitration of Industrial Disputes, Wages and Salaries Control, including Cost of Living Bonus, and Factory Legislation.

Publishing Department—The following publications are supplied to all members of the Association:

(a) "Industrial Canada" the official organ of the Association, which contains information compiled from the various Departments, and also commercial news of a general character.

(b) The Canadian Trade Index—This book contains a list of all the manufacturers in Canada, with the Goods which they make. It is distributed abroad through Government Trade Commissioners, Export Organizations and other agencies.

FEES

The Association is maintained by the fees paid by members. The fee in each case is determined by the number of employees. For further information please communicate with the Head Office—

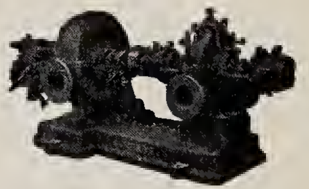
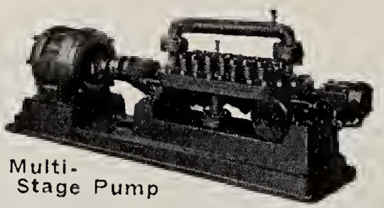
"Cameron" Pumps—

Motor Pump



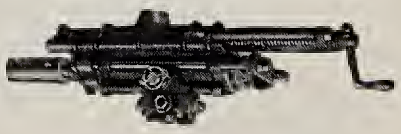
Single-Stage Pump



Multi-Stage Pump

"Cameron" Pumps in service cover a remarkable range; capacities from 5 to 100,000 g.p.m., pressures 5 to 3000 lbs. per square inch, and temperatures from below freezing to 800°F. Included are units for belt or direct - connected electric motor, turbine or engine drive, and steam pumps. Besides general service units for all conditions, the "Cameron" line includes pumps for oil refineries and pipe lines, paper mill stock and acids, process chemicals and many other highly specialized applications.

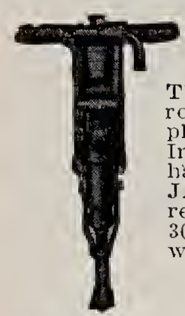
"Radialaxe" Coal Cutters—



"Radialaxe" Coal Cutters

Long famous in coal producing countries is the "Radialaxe" Coal Cutter, noted for its light weight, simplicity, ease of operation, and low operating and maintenance costs. Bulletin K-400-C.

plus hoisting, pumping, mining, power plant and paper mill machinery



"Jack-hamer"

Rock Drilling Equipment—

There is a C-I-R drill for every rock condition, together with complete equipment for the steel shop. Included are three sizes of 'Jackhamers' — the JB-30, JA-45 and JA-55—weighing 30, 45 and 55 lbs. respectively; 3″ and 3½″ bore DA-30 and DA-35 Drifters, and the widely known R-51 and SAR-120-F 'Stopehamers'. Three sizes of Drill Steel Sharpeners are suitable for any size steel, together with two sizes of Oil Furnaces. 'Jackbits' and 'Jackrods' are available, and a varied line of equipment for grinding, threading, shanking and other steel forging and dressing operations.

Paving Breaker and Steels

Paving Breakers, in three sizes, have wide application for demolishment of pavement, walls, machinery foundations, and for picking frozen ground, stock piles, etc. They can be supplied with moil points, 3″ and 5″ chisel steels, and with tamping pads, as shown. The 'Cushioned-Air' CC-80 is most efficient available. These tools can be converted, by the addition of special fronthead, for many forms of sheet pile driving. Bulletin K-502-A.

Hoisting Equipment—

Outstanding among Canadian Ingersoll-Rand products are a wide range of air, steam and electric hoists for every hoisting and handling operation. For industrial plants, there are Air Motor Hoists and Direct-Lift Cylinder Air Hoists, with capacities from 500 to 20,000 lbs. For construction, many sizes of "Utility" Air Hoists and "Tugger" Electric Hoists. For mining, a broad range of air, electric and engine driven slushers, and air, steam and electric hoists, single or multi-drum, parallel and tandem type. Shaft hoists for every condition on the surface and underground.

SELF-PROPELLED

THE HARESTING MACHINE OF THE FUTURE

IS HERE TODAY

MASSEY-HARRIS LEADS THE WORLD

IN PROMOTING SELF-PROPELLED FARM MACHINERY

Fortunate were the farmers of the United Nations that, in the seasons immediately preceding the outbreak of war, Massey-Harris introduced the revolutionary self-propelled principle into combine harvesting machinery. Manufactured in quantities limited only by wartime restrictions, these machines today are already in use on farms in many countries of the world making a valuable contribution in the battle of food production.

In these machines, farmers recognize the harbingers of a new power farming era, and they look to Massey-Harris for latest developments that make farming easier and more profitable.

STEEL

Steel is adaptable . . .

Steel is dependable . . .

Steel is compact . . .

Steel is uniform . . .

Steel is the symbol of strength . . .

and because of these qualities, Steel is the most coveted material of nations at war. Civilian needs for the time being must be relegated to the background.

When Steel has played its part in bringing this war to a successful conclusion and the arts of peace flourish once more, it will again lead the march of civilization.

A list of Algoma Steel Products will be found on the opposite page.

ALGOMA STEEL CORPORATION LIMITED

ALGOMA QUALITY MEETS WORLD STANDARDS

Steel produced by Algoma is qualified by 40 years of use in Canadian industry to meet world standards. Its product is made to the specifications of Canadian engineers and metallurgists whose limits and tolerances are as fine as any in the world. Algoma is the foremost Canadian producer of railroad, structural and alloy steels. Algoma supplies a wide range of shapes and sections, in hundreds of grades of carbon and alloy steels, to domestic and export markets, for automobiles, buildings, bridges, agricultural implements, mining equipment, docks and drainage structures, household products, machinery, rails and railroad equipment, public utilities and for other products and uses.

ALLOY STEELS—
Pioneers in Canada of Alloy Steels in hot rolled sections, bars and billets. Specially suited to conditions demanding high tensile strength and shock resistance combined with reduced weight. Chromium, Nickel, Vanadium, Molybdenum, Copper, Manganese, Silicon, singly or in combination, can be supplied to S.A.E. or customers' specifications.

BILLETS—BLOOMS—SLABS—
Made of Algoma high-quality Steel for rerolling and forging. Supplied in Carbon and Alloy grades.

Here's the ANSWER to your DIRTY OIL problem

Dirty lubricating oil is a primary cause of excessive friction and rapid bearing wear—the enemies of smooth, dependable turbine or Diesel operation.

The De Laval Oil Purifier keeps lubricating oil clean—continuously and unfailingly. Thus, it enables oil to provide a maximum of protection to moving parts. At the same time, it enables the oil to be safely used over long periods.

These facts, recognized for many years by builders and operators of prime movers, are now more important than ever.

—And now, too, the superiority of De Laval centrifugal purification is greater than ever before: still cleaner oil is delivered; capacities have been stepped up so that oil is purified more rapidly; machines are easier to handle—more nearly fool proof—and require less attention.

Bulletin will be gladly mailed upon request.

Reproduction at left shows several pounds of sediment removed from lubricating oil by a De Laval Purifier, leaving the oil practically equal to new.

ARE YOU EQUIPPED TO battle FOR BUSINESS?

Every aid to efficiency now is important. STAN-STEEL Electric welded steel tubing, proved in war equipment, can help cut down labour and costs. Its light weight and great strength, combined with smooth appearance, are being put to good use by many of your competitors.

Look over the design of your products now, with a view to using STAN-STEEL Electric welded steel tubing wherever possible. We have redesigned hundreds of things for our customers to their gain. Send us full information on some of your problems for our advice.

STAN-STEEL FACTORY EQUIPMENT

Speeds the Job

STAN-STEEL Factory Equipment is designed to meet the common problems of industrial handling. Its tubular design gives it ability to stand the hard knocks of service to an uncanny degree.

The STAN-STEEL Factory Equipment Catalogue shows many labour saving trucks made of tubing. If you have a peculiar handling problem perhaps we can design equipment to solve it. Write us.

STAN-STEEL Tube a Proven Product

STAN-STEEL Electric welded tubing is proved, by test, equal to any other tubing. Made in sizes from 3/8″ O.D. x 24 gauge to 3″ O.D. x 11 gauge. Write for Hand Book.

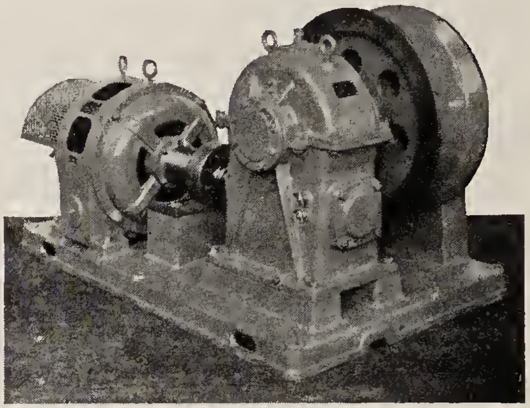
CUT GEARS

Made in Canada for 32 years

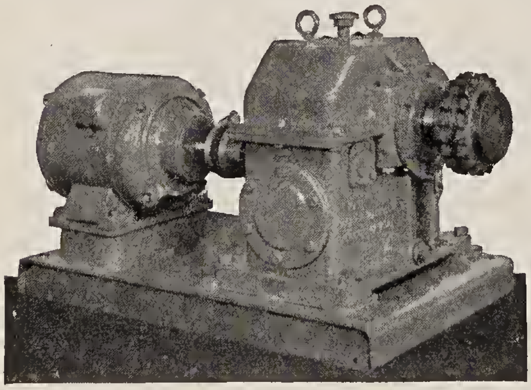
Speed Reducers

Used wherever High Speed Power is applied to Low Speed Use

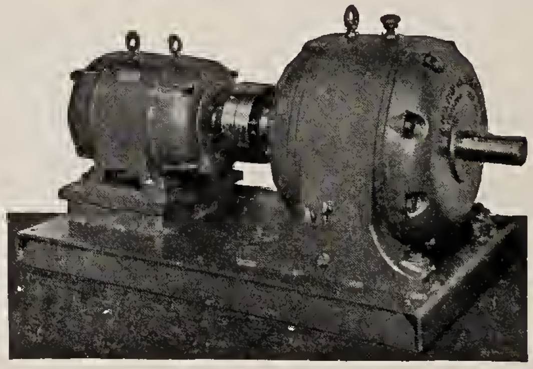
Worm gear and helical gear units, in single and multiple reduction, are made in a wide range of sizes. Send for catalogue on either of these types, listing standard sizes, with power capacities and detail specifications. These are high grade, heavy duty gear drives, designed and rated for 24-hour continuous service. Ratios are available up to six thousand to one in simple, efficient, self-contained units.



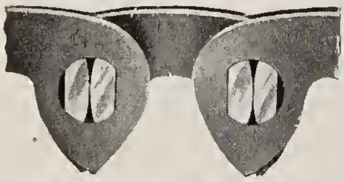
Integral motorized speed reducers and increasers, built as one self-contained unit, are made in a full range of sizes, in both worm gear and helical gear forms, in single and multiple reduction, to give almost any desired final speed. This construction offers many advantages in freedom of arrangement.



We have extended our line of Double Reduction Worm units to quite large sizes. These have ratios ranging from about 60 up to 6000 to one. A catalogue covers this line in detail.



The Planetary type of speed reducer with shafts in line is now made for coupled connection, as shown, as well as in the original motorized form. A catalogue has been issued on each of these lines.



The Compensating Joint

Silent Chain Drives

The Hamilton-Ramsey silent chain (made in Canada) will operate at higher speeds and run smoother and with less wear than any competing chain because of the compensating rolling cam action in the patented Ramsey joint. In ⅜″ to 1-½″ pitch.

ROLDWELD Steel Spur Gears

This new electric-welded steel gear has a .45% C. forging-quality rim. It is long wearing and practically unbreakable. The cost is less than a steel casting, the strength is greater, and delivery can be made in a quarter of the time. See photo above.

Flexible Couplings

A full line of standard flexible couplings for both high speed and slow speed, the former illustrated here, are carried in stock. Larger sizes to order. We also stock small power flexible couplings down to fractional h.p. ratings. Send for coupling catalogue.

DON'T WORRY—

Taylor engineers will always take care of your control instrument problems!

Post-war planning for executives in the process industries involves problems of temperature, pressure and flow control . . . but don't let these worry you too much. Call in your Taylor field man and discuss your present and future processing problems with him. He knows the answers. He will tell you of new developments in the instrument field, which will provide short-cuts to new economies. He knows of new ways to maintain standards of quality and to increase plant efficiency. Place your control problems in his hands with confidence.

During this war, the Taylor organization has many new technical achievements to its credit. This experience will be brought to bear to provide you with the right indicating, recording and controlling instruments for temperatures, pressures and flows. For Hot Rolled Pipe and Tubes

BUTTWELD Process — The simplest form of pipe construction for standard pipe requirements. Made in sizes from 1/8″ to 3″ diameter.

LAPWELD Process —A superior pipe that withstands greater strain and pressure. Recommended for sizes 2″ and over. Made from 1″ to 12″ diameter.

SEAMLESS Process — The strongest process offered. There are no welds in this pipe. Recommended for extreme pressures. Sizes 1/4″ to 6″ diameter.

A NEW PAGE-HERSEY PRODUCT

Our new, modern plant at Welland, Ontario, is now producing Cold Drawn Seamless Tubing; finished bright and shiny, or dark blue and smooth.

Hot finished tubes are processed here by cold drawing, to smaller diameters and lighter gauges for all mechanical and pressure tube requirements, such as—

Pressure Tubes that roll in easily, i.e.
Naval Boiler Tubes—Merchant Boiler Tubes and Still Tubes—Superheater Tubes—Heat Exchanger and Condenser Tubes—Evaporator Tubes.

Mechanical Tubes for easy fabrication, i.e.
Bomb Tail Tubes—Tubes for Tanks and Armoured Vehicles—Diamond Drill Tubes—Transformer Tubes—Tubes for Anti-Aircraft Guns and Aircraft Conveyor Tubes.

Tubes treated in the dark annealing furnace, are smooth and have a dark blue surface finish. Our bright annealing atmospheric controlled furnace turns out tubes with a mirror-like finish on both interior and exterior surfaces. These processes are far superior to box annealing.

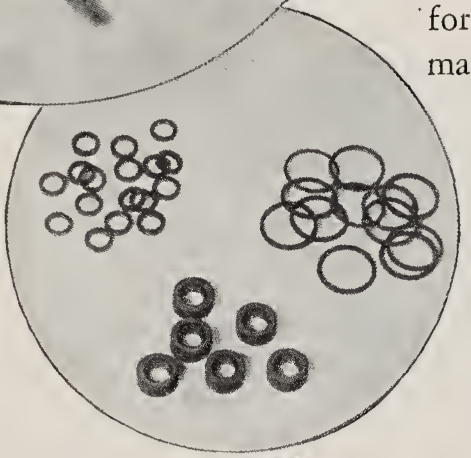
FOR YOUR RUBBER PARTS—

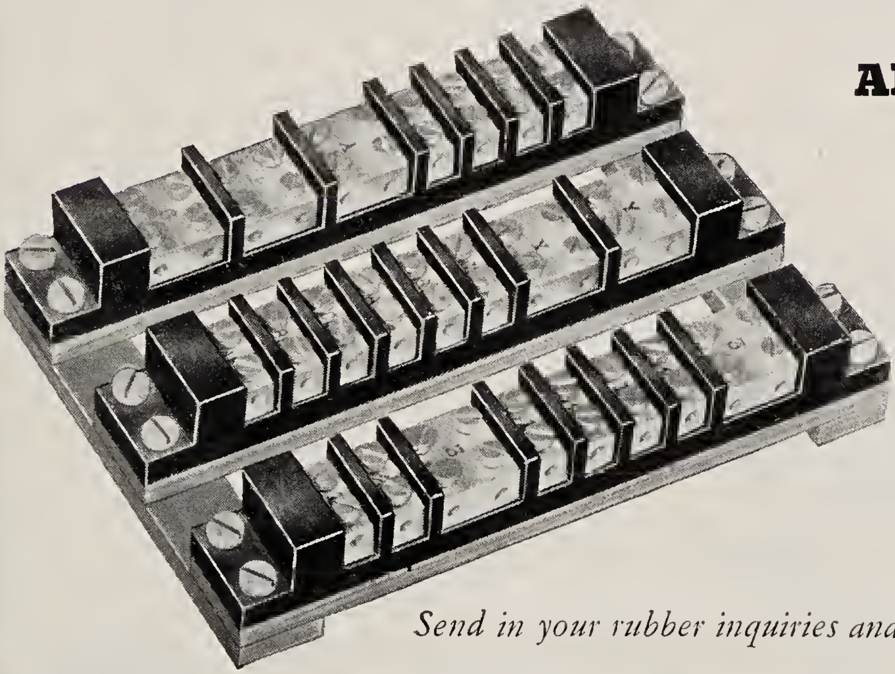
Crude – Reclaim – Synthetics – you'll get best results from Griffith.

We have had experience with all types and grades of rubber, and can tell you what is best for the job, from available materials. We are equipped to manufacture to your specifications.



A group of molded rubber parts above — all shapes and sizes of molded rubber, and rubber-to-metal, parts.

Rubber Washers to the left — a Griffith specialty. Large and small washers — thick and thin—from the various available materials.



AND NOW— PLASTICS

Illustrated are terminal blocks, molded from resin impregnated cotton cord. The assembly costs one quarter as much as the all - metal part it replaces.

Send in your rubber inquiries and orders to Griffith.

PAPERS WITH A PURPOSE

The papers which bear the "R" Shield watermark have a mission in life. Each one endeavors, in its own niche, to provide a medium most suitable and as fine as possible for the use intended.

For each department of commercial correspondence and records you will find an appropriate Rolland paper. In the purchase of paper for your particular requirements, to specify a Rolland product will always assure a sheet that is best suited to the type of work you have in hand.

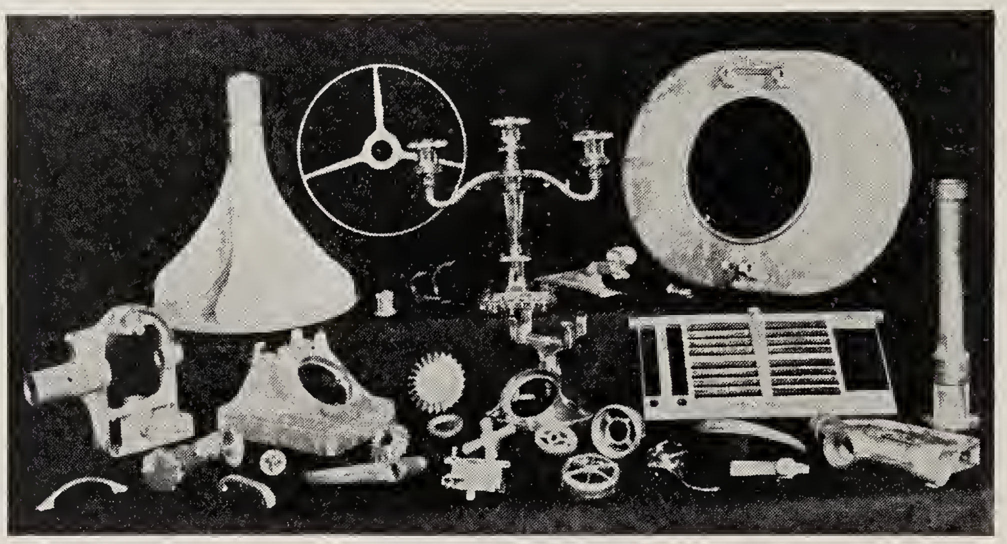
Let DIE CASTINGS

save you money



Here we show only a few of the parts we are making for various Canadian manufacturers. These include automobile ornaments and hardware, plumbing fixtures, padlocks, door stops, hose nozzles, telephone stands, clock cases, candlesticks, and gears and other parts for washing machines. If your product has metal parts now made by the slower and more expensive sand-casting method, it will pay you well to look into the savings and better satisfaction of die casting.

STRENGTH — Our zinc base alloy is from virgin metals of a tested, proven formula. A thermostat holds the casting temperature to an absolute pre-determined degree. Our machines, which are of the latest improved type, always produce a dense, homogeneous casting.

PRECISION — Our dies will assure all dimensions within extremely close limits. The variety of castings now being made in our plant is evidence of our ability to turn out successfully whatever you may require.

FINISH — Requires very little machining or polishing in your factory.

NOW...
Our "Second Wind"

ANYONE can start something. To sprint the first lap of a race—to write the first chapter of a book—to give your best during the first part of a war, those things are easy. There is a thrill about beginning.

And then what?

Then the grind begins. The runner's chest tightens and his legs drag. The writer's ideas come hard. The manufacturer stares glumly at a cancelled war contract, while the worker in the plant finds the mornings cold and dark, his job monotonous. That is the time when quitters quit and even the champions slow down, when it is hard to keep plugging. It is the time when races—and wars—are won.

All of us have been going through the grind. We have felt the pressure. We have been disheartened by failures, tired by constant effort. Now, like a runner, we are getting our "second wind." The worst of the grind is past. Victory is ahead. We know it can be ours, if we use our "second wind" with determination.

Let us pledge ourselves, now, to use our strength to the utmost, to help on every front of the war effort, to tackle every production job as though it were the first one. Above all, let us pledge ourselves to stay on the job—every man and woman—until we finish what we have so well started, until complete Victory is won.

SAFE LANDING

Take another look at this Gannet! Notice how every feather, every muscle is poised and controlled so that the bird will land safe and sure . . . Chatco, preparing for new and unknown peacetime conditions is also poised for a "safe landing".

We have studied the alternatives of after-war markets, and planned new products to supply them in addition to our known Chatco lines. We are prepared to regroup and adapt our facilities and personnel to meet new conditions. When the wings of Victory are stretched for the war's ending we shall be ready . . .

Meanwhile our full facilities are in top gear supplying the famous Chatco Unit Heaters and Convectors for war supply plants and military and naval needs. Chatco blood plasma processing and storage equipment is playing its part in Mercy's work at home and abroad. Bombs and shells and many other pressed, rolled and machined products are pouring from our plant . . . and all the while we are gaining new experience for future peacetime activities.

Two Easy Ways to Make ANTI-FRICTION BEARINGS Serve Better—Last Longer!

HERE are two simple rules to observe in your lubricating problems—use a reliable lubricant — and apply with Alemite Lubricating Equipment.

Failures of anti-friction bearings can jeopardize vital production schedules. Alemite Lubricating Systems and Equipment not only give you utmost protection against losses due to unnecessary breakdowns . . . but actually save you money and speed up production by eliminating much lubricating time.

Let the wide experience of Alemite Engineers solve your own particular lubrication problems . . . their advice and recommendations are available to you without cost or obligation.

ALEMITE 7700 SERIES PNEUMATIC BARREL PUMPS

. . . comprise a complete range of heavy-duty pumps available for high or low pressures. Handle heavy greases direct from original drums; ample capacity to serve several outlets.

ALEMITE MODEL 6528 40-LB. PNEUMATIC GUN

. . . operates on 90 to 150 lbs. air; handles heavy fibrous grease; develops grease pressure 33 times air pressure used. Exclusive helix arm and worm assures positive prime; no air pockets.

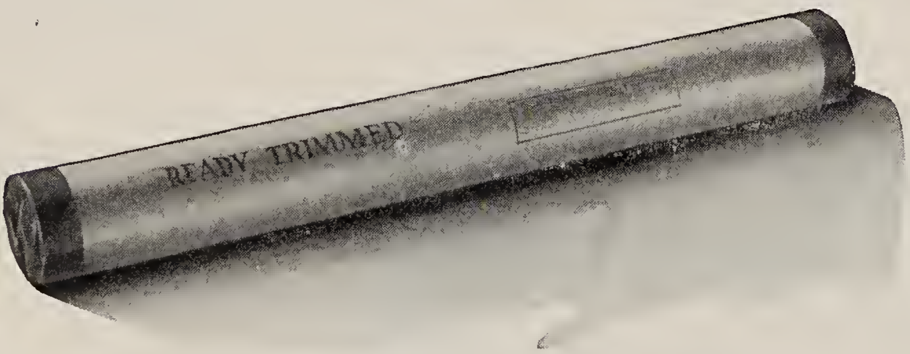
FOR SUN-TESTED WALLPAPERS REG'D TRADE MARK QUALITY

A Complete Line of 22″ and 30″ Widths

All except the very low priced papers are laboratory tested for non-fading colors. They retain their freshness and beauty long after many other papers under similar conditions fade and lose their original colors.

All low and medium priced papers are ready-trimmed. The selvages are cut off in process of manufacture leaving clean cut, perfect matching edges. Ends of rolls are capped for protection.



A great labor saver and easy to hang.

The ready-trimmed and other papers have for several years been exported to foreign countries, arriving in entirely satisfactory condition.

Write for free sample books and a specimen roll of "Ready-Trimmed".

PAPER THE MODERN PACKAGING MATERIAL

Paper containers, made by Continental, have proved their quality, durability and utility. They have stood up to the most severe wartime tests and are now being used widely and successfully by food packers and other industries who did not consider their use before the war. Those other materials are now released for other wartime duties.

Continental paper bags have come through the war with flying colours too. They have won their way on toughness and durability and are recognized by manufacturers and retailers as the finest obtainable.

Write us for suggestions, samples and prices. Our staff of packaging experts are always at your service.

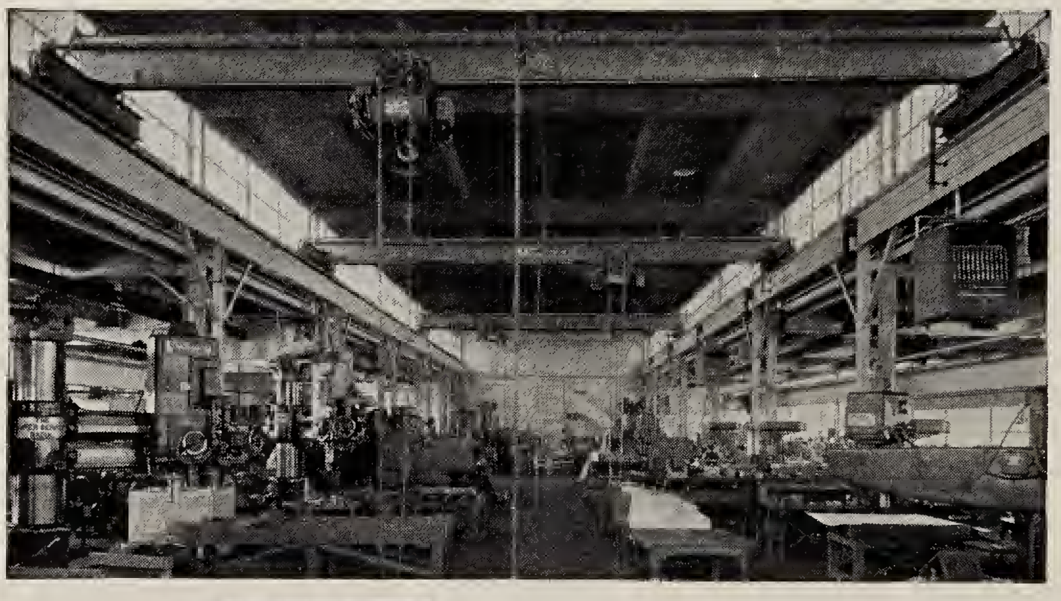
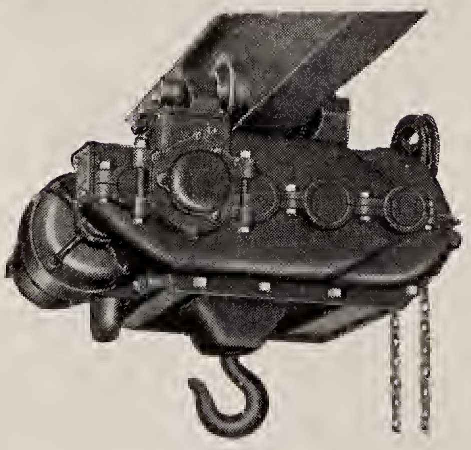
Industry's Air Transport

Northern Cranes and Hoists





For years industry has known what the army and navy are just discovering—that materials may be moved through the air with ease and dispatch.

Industry moves materials through the air with reliable cranes and hoists. Speed, safety, and clear pathways are always available.

Northern Cranes and Hoists are contributing much to industry's air transport in these busy times.

Northern Hi-Lift Hoists are built in 1000 lb. to 15-ton capacity — in single motor and two-motor types.

NEW STEELS FOR CANADA

PRE-WAR YEARS

CANADA'S FIRST SUCCESSFUL PLATE MILL

DOFASCO'S combination Universal and Sheared Plate Mill was designed for the Canadian demand and previous to the outbreak of war DOFASCO supplied 82% of Canada's total plate requirements or 92% in our rolling widths.

CANADA'S FIRST SUCCESSFUL HOT STRIP MILL

Once again DOFASCO pioneered in Canadian steel progress, adding patented hot coiling equipment to the Plate Mill, making possible production of Hot Strip in coils suitable for Cold Rolling.

CANADA'S FIRST SUCCESSFUL COLD ROLLING STRIP MILL

DOFASCO introduced into Canada the production of thin Steel Strip or Sheets, by the Cold Reduction process, for Tin Plate, Blue Plate, Enamelling Plate, Cold Rolled Sheets, and many other purposes.

CANADA'S FIRST SUCCESSFUL TIN PLATE MILL

DOFASCO is the first and only company making Tin Plate from Canadian Steel rolled by the Cold Reduction Process, which gives accuracy of gauge, high finish and ductility only possible by this method. In the U.S.A. 99% of Tin Plate is produced from cold rolled steel.

WAR YEARS

CANADA'S FIRST AND ONLY PRODUCER OF ARMOUR PLATE

"Another First" for Canada. Huge quantities of Armour Plate Steel have been produced, of the highest quality, and DOFASCO men take pride in the fact that they have furnished all of Canada's Armour plate. DOFASCO is also the producer of large gun forgings, again of the highest quality.

CANADA'S FIRST AND LARGEST PRODUCER OF ARMOUR CASTINGS

Operating our plant practically 100% on war work and producing war castings, we met every demand asked of us. DOFASCO Engineers and Metallurgists also contributed in speeding up deliveries and savings in costs by substituting alloy castings replacing forgings, without loss of quality.

POST-WAR YEARS

STEEL CASTINGS — STEEL PLATE — STEEL SHEETS

DOFASCO Engineers are ready to consult with designing engineers of any industry in regard to Post-War Steel Casting and high tensile steel plate & steel sheet requirements and to develop thoughts regarding substitutes, especially alloy steels for reduction of weight, longer life, or better performance.

MORE NEW STEEL PRODUCTS

Already DOFASCO has announced two new steel products—Floor Plate in wide widths and new cold reduced Vitreous Enamelling Sheets never before made in Canada.

CANADA'S FIRST CONTINUOUS TINNING LINE

A continuous tinning line for Tinplate and other uses is under construction. The war has developed the use of Tinplate with lower coatings of tin which can best be produced by a continuous tinning operation. Plans are completed for more than doubling our Cold Rolled strip production, which means not only the finding of jobs for our returned men, but also retaining the hundreds of war workers already added to our normal staff. DOFASCO faces the Post-War years with confidence.

TYPE NCS

DESIGNED FOR TODAY'S NEEDS AND TOMORROW'S TRENDS—THEY OFFER A UNIQUE COMBINATION OF ADVANTAGES

You may not have realized how many different types of Needle Bearings have been developed since the first Torrington Needle Bearing was introduced.

Some of them are illustrated here.

Common Advantages

All of them employ the basic principle of a full complement of small diameter needle rollers within a single, compact retaining raceway. And all of them offer the characteristic advantages of the original Torrington Needle Bearing:

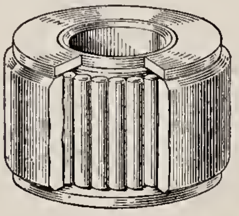
1. Small size, light weight and compact design
2. High radial load capacity and elimination of stress concentration
3. Unit construction which facilitates handling and installation
4. Efficient lubrication; freedom from maintenance attention
5. Low cost

For Special Requirements

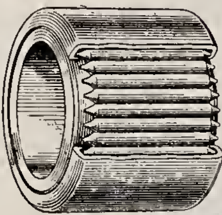
Each of the "newer" types is designed for a particular task . . . a particular set of conditions.

Some of them were so well established even before the war as to be almost universally used for certain applications. For example, the NCS Type Needle Bearing, of rugged construction, designed for heavy service, and available in standard sizes to fit an inner race of from ⅝″ O.D. to 5½″ O.D., is widely employed in equipment for the oil industry where service conditions are severe and rough "handling" the rule.

Others are the result of wartime demands for greater efficiency in speeding production lines and stepping up performance records. The AT Type Needle Bearing, for instance, has a heavy, through hardened outer race designed to give maximum capacity obtainable from the rollers used. It has found wide application in the aircraft construction where it is used with standard AN bolts and is designed to have a static non-Brinell capacity equal to the single shear strength of the bolt. Standard sizes in the AT Type range from 0.1900 to 1.0000″ to fit on bolts No. 3 to 16.



TYPE AT



DC (INNER RACE)

For Postwar Designs

Where the efficiency of anti-friction operation is desired, and space, weight and cost are vitally important considerations—as they will be in designing to meet postwar trends—Needle Bearings provide the answer!

With the development of a complete line of all types, The Torrington Company offers the product designer and engineer a selection to meet virtually any radial load requirement. The experience of Torrington engineers is available to aid in design and application of Needle Bearings to your particular job. A copy of our current Catalog No. 116 will give you an outline of the types, sizes and capacities currently available for essential needs. And if our engineering staff can assist in selecting the right type for a particular job, write, outlining your need.

Here at Leland Electric in Guelph, Ontario, we manufacture only electrical rotating equipment. The years of specialization, which we have had in the building of better motors, naturally gives us the confidence that you can't buy a better motor than a LELAND. From the selection of the raw materials to the finished unit, one dominant factor controls the design, fabrication and sale of Leland Motors—to produce the most practical and efficient motor that it is possible to construct. This guarantees every user years of dependable, trouble-free service.

Wherever you come across a situation where the use of an electrical rotating unit could help solve the problem, think of LELAND. Our experienced engineering department is at your service—ready to help you solve that problem in the most efficient and workable manner. Our engineers have designed literally thousands of variations to standard designs to meet special conditions. You can depend upon their advice just as you can rely fully upon any unit bearing the name "LELAND".

LELAND electric motors, generators, converters and alternators are available in a wide variety of designs, in sizes ranging from 1/30 to 5 horsepower. Write, telephone or wire us your requirements.

NICKEL FOR ALLOYING IRON, STEEL, BRASS AND BRONZE

NICKEL—In shot and pig forms, and Electrolytic Nickel squares, for producing nickel cast iron, nickel steels, nickel brasses and bronzes.

COPPER-NICKEL SHOT—For nickel additions to brass and bronze. Contains 50% Copper and 50% Nickel.

WROUGHT MONEL, NICKEL AND INCONEL

MONEL—A nickel-copper alloy having high strength and hardness, and good resistance to corrosion. Used extensively in the chemical, marine, power equipment, laundry, food service, pickling, petroleum and pulp and paper industries.

"K" MONEL—A non-magnetic, age-hardening alloy with high strength and hardness. Its resistance to corrosion is similar to that of Monel.

"R" MONEL—A free-machining alloy particularly adapted for use in automatic screw machines.

"KR" MONEL—A free-machining grade of "K" Monel which can be heat treated to develop similar high mechanical properties.

"A" NICKEL—Commercially pure malleable nickel for turbine blading, radio tube parts, gaskets, high temperature applications and corrosion-resisting service.

"D" NICKEL—Contains approximately 4.5% manganese, but otherwise has the composition of nickel. The manganese provides improved resistance to attack by sulphur compounds at elevated temperatures under both oxidizing and reducing conditions. Used for spark plug electrodes, gas engine ignition tubes, thermometer wells, and other high temperature applications not requiring a material with mechanical properties quite so high as those of Inconel.

"Z" NICKEL—An age-hardening high-nickel alloy in which great strength and hardness are accompanied by the high resistance to corrosion that is characteristic of nickel. Can be heat-treated after forming to develop 2½ to 4 times the strength of structural steel. An excellent spring material.

INCONEL — A nickel-chromium-iron alloy having exceptional strength and resistance to oxidation at high temperatures. It was developed primarily for freedom from tarnishing and other effects of corrosion in the food industries but has since found wide application in the furnace and heat treat field.

CASTINGS — MONEL

MONEL — Monel castings have the same order of resistance to corrosion as wrought Monel and are used for the pump impellers, filter plates, valve bodies, pumps, bushings and fittings.

"S" MONEL—A small silicon addition confers age-hardening characteristics. The hardness of the alloy is of the order of 320 Brinell as cast and may be increased to 350 by suitable thermal treatment. "S" Monel has excellent gall and erosion resistance, thus making it particularly suitable for valve seats, and sliding or other moving parts. It retains high hardness at red heat.

TECHNICAL SERVICE

A large staff of engineers and specialists on technical subjects is maintained throughout Canada, United States and Great Britain. The cumulative experience of these men is available. In the consideration of new products for post-war development, or better equipment to produce your product, the use of nickel or one of the many nickel alloys might prove highly advantageous. Your confidence in inviting us to discuss any matters in which we can be of assistance will be appreciated. Our representatives are more or less constantly in your district and can frequently arrange to discuss technical matters personally.

Foreword

SPECIAL EXPORT SECTION

by THE HONOURABLE JAMES A. MacKINNON

Minister of Trade and Commerce, Ottawa.

FOR over four years normal trading has been subordinated to the needs of war. In that period domestic exports have increased more than three-fold, totalling $2,972,000,000 in 1943. This growth, to a large extent, is a measure of the increasing magnitude of Canada's industrial production.

Exports of motor vehicles and parts, including trucks, gun carriers and tanks, increased from $26,000,000 in 1939 to $472,000,000 in 1943; guns, from a few thousand dollars before the war to $144,000,000; shells and cartridges, from $1,000,000 to $354,000,000; ships, aircraft and army and navy stores from $1,000,000 to $176,000,000 in 1943.

On many commodities normally exported from Canada there has been a corresponding, if less spectacular, expansion. Exports of main food items such as wheat, flour, fish of all kinds, bacon, processed milk and eggs increased from $138,000,000 in 1939 to $482,000,000 in 1943.

Forestry items, including lumber, pulpwood, wood pulp and newsprint, increased from $207,000,000 to $341,000,000. Non-ferrous metals, including aluminum, copper, lead, zinc and nickel rose from $183,000,000 to $333,000,000, while exports of non-metallic minerals, such as asbestos, abrasives, petroleum products and coal increased from $29,000,000 to $62,000,000, and chemicals and allied products from $24,000,000 to $86,000,000.

The Department of Trade and Commerce is continuing to maintain its various services on a wartime footing. At the same time, close attention is being given to postwar problems. A survey is being made of wartime industrial developments in other countries to determine how these are likely to affect postwar trade in products which can normally be supplied from Canada. Of particular importance has been the establishment by the Department of an Export Planning Division to arrange for and to assist in administering export quotas of raw materials and manufactured products that can be released for civilian consumption. It is the objective of this Division to ensure that the limited quantities of 'civilian goods' that are available for export are distributed to the markets that have the strongest and most urgent claim upon Canadian supplies.

A Canadian Export Board, comprising representatives of several interested Departments, has been set up. This Board will function as a Canadian purchasing agency for other Governments requiring civilian goods which cannot, for one reason or another, be procured through ordinary commercial channels. The activities of this Board will not be permitted to interfere in any way with the placing of orders which can be handled in the normal commercial way.

Plans have been laid for an expansion of the Commercial Intelligence Service both at home and abroad. Several new Commodity Divisions are to be formed, with experienced specialists in charge, who will be afforded ample opportunities to visit industrial centres and to discuss export problems with manufacturers. Additional Trade Commissioner offices will be opened in countries offering reasonable prospects for trade expansion, and the personnel of existing offices will be strengthened wherever necessary.

Canadian Trade Commissioners are continuing to do their utmost to preserve prewar contacts and to maintain commercial goodwill abroad. They have undertaken a variety of special wartime functions but their main efforts have been directed to assisting friendly countries to secure their minimum requirements of essential commodities from Canada.

Other Divisions of the Department have been active in their respective fields, with special significance attaching under present circumstances to the work of the Export Permit Branch, to the several Divisions of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics that have undertaken large additional wartime responsibilities, and to the duties of such organizations as the Canadian Shipping Board, and the Shipping Priorities Committee which, while not forming an integral part of the Department, are closely associated with it both in organization and in the nature of their responsibilities.

Department of Trade and Commerce

The Act of Parliament which in 1887, created the Department of Trade and Commerce and which was brought into effect by an Order-in-Council, dated December 5th, 1892, merely provided that there should be a Department of the Government of Canada to be called the Department of Trade and Commerce. The duties and powers of the Minister were defined to be the execution of laws enacted by the Parliament of Canada relating to such matters connected with trade and commerce generally, as had not been assigned to any other Department of the Government. In the succeeding years a wide range of services have been performed and at present the Acts administered by the Department include The Canada Grain Act; Electricity Inspection Act; Gas Inspection Act; Electricity and Fluid Exportation Act; Electric Units Act; Precious Metals Marking Act; Statistics Act; Water Meters Act; Inspection of Weights and Measures Inspection Act; Inland Water Freight Rates Act; Grain Futures Act.

The various functions of the Department are carried out by the following organizations:—

The Commercial Intelligence Service

The Commercial Intelligence Service, which is the chief agency of the Government for assisting export trade, consists of headquarters in the Department at Ottawa and a corps of Trade Commissioners stationed abroad.

The headquarters staff comprises a director in charge of administration and an assistant director; an Export Planning Division; a number of commodity divisions; an editorial division; and a trade directories division.

The Export Planning Division acts as a claimant agency for export quotas of raw materials, semi-manufactured and finished goods as they become available for civilian requirements and allocates shares of these quotas to various countries pro rata on the basis of past trade or otherwise as circumstances may warrant.

The function of the commodity divisions is to collect data relating to the commodities which Canada exports and to distribute information regarding export opportunities to Canadian exporters. By specializing on groups of commodities, the officers of the divisions obtain an intimate knowledge of the trade in these products and are able to render valuable assistance to exporters.

The Commercial Intelligence Journal, which contains the reports of Trade Commissioners and other useful trade information, is issued weekly for a nominal subscription of $1.00 per annum.

The Directory of Canadian Exporters, a copy of which is supplied to each Trade Commissioner, contains a complete record of every known Canadian exporter, the commodities it manufactures, the names of its foreign agents, etc. The Trade Commissioners compile for their own use and for the Department an Importers Directory containing similar information about firms in their respective territories who are known to be interested in purchasing from Canada.

Prior to the war there were thirty-three Trade Commissioner offices. As a result of enemy conquests, offices in Europe, Japan, Hong Kong, China and British Malaya had to be closed and the Trade Commissioners and Assistant Trade Commissioners have been assigned for special duty in Canada. At present there are twenty-seven offices, fifteen in Empire countries and twelve in foreign countries. Two specialists, a Fruit Trade Commissioner and an Animal Products Trade Commissioner, are stationed in London.

The duties of Trade Commissioners are to promote the export trade of Canada; to link up the Canadian exporter with the foreign importer; to study conditions and needs of the territories where they are located; to make direct enquiries or conduct preliminary surveys regarding the potential market for any product, reporting the exact kinds of goods wanted, competition to be met, and the best methods of packing, shipping and billing. Their services are always at the disposal of firms and individuals interested in Canada's trade expansion.

Trade developments the world over are reported by these Commissioners to the Department at Ottawa and this information is available to all Canadian exporters.

Assistance that can be given by Canadian Trade Commissioners

Despite the fact that many Canadian plants are fully occupied in connection with the war effort and also that the necessity exists for conserving most of the basic materials for war purposes, there are many commodities which are available for export. In any investigation which Canadian exporters may wish to make looking to possible markets for the products they manufacture or produce, Trade Commissioners are prepared to render a wide range of assistance, which may be indicated, in part, as follows:—

Commercial Information

1. Preliminary information relating to possible markets abroad for Canadian products, including:

(a) The present and prospective demand for their goods.

(b) Foreign and local competition (with specimens, catalogues and prices).

(c) Details of best selling methods.

(d) Reports on foreign buyers, though the Department cannot assume any responsibility in any opinions expressed by Trade Commissioners. They, however, will use their best endeavours to advise exporters as to the standing of such firms.

(e) Specifications of articles in particular demand.

(f) Definite inquiries for goods by foreign importers.

Agents, Buyers, and Distributors

2. Trade Commissioners will also:—

(a) Recommend to intending exporters the names of responsible parties in a position to act as agents or buyers and distributors.

(b) Give every possible assistance to such agents, etc., and will introduce them to influential individuals or associations who may be in a position to buy goods from Canada.

(c) Give confidential information, when so requested, as to the activities of agents appointed by Canadian exporters, or firms to whom sales have been, or are being, made.

3. Trade Commissioners can assist in advising Canadian exporters and manufacturers:—

(a) As to the best media in which to place advertisements and the form which such advertisements should take, i.e., their adaptation to the special requirements of the community.

(b) In the display of catalogues, price lists and samples where they can be seen by potential buyers.

(c) As to the distribution of trade literature and its probable cost.

General

4. (a) Trade Commissioners are always prepared to receive visitors from Canada and introduce them to possible buyers or agents, or put them in contact with such experts as legal advisers, interpreters, and shipping and banking representatives.

(b) The good offices of Trade Commissioners can always be invoked with a view to settling difficulties which may arise between the Canadian exporters and buyers abroad.

(c) Trade Commissioners will at any time provide such information as may be available as to freight rates customs, port dues, etc., so as to enable Canadian firms to quote prices for delivery overseas. They will be glad also to provide information respecting cost of travel, regulations applicable to commercial travellers, packing and marking of goods, shipping accommodation, storage arrangements, and any other foreign government regulations or conditions which have to be complied with.

Financial Arrangements

5. Particulars can be obtained with regard to:—

(a) Terms of credit which may be given to foreign buyers.

(b) Financial houses and banks who will discount bills or give credit.

(c) Regulations governing the recovery of debts in foreign countries.

(d) Disposal of goods abroad contracted for but not accepted by foreign buyers.

(e) Infringement of trade marks or patent rights; and advice on registration.

Information Necessary to the Trade Commissioner

When a Canadian exporter desires the assistance of a Trade Commissioner in marketing his goods abroad, he should with the first letter provide that officer with the following:—

(a) Catalogues and best export prices c.i.f. port of entry, or failing that, f.o.b. Canadian port. It is quite useless to send prices f.o.b. factory.

(b) Details regarding process of manufacture if convenient.

(c) If not too bulky, samples of what the firms have to offer should be forwarded—not necessarily a full range—and a draft or money order sufficient to cover the customs duties and landing charges on the samples.

(d) Bankers' references.

(e) The proportion of output which is available for export, time required to ship from receipt of order and the quantity for which orders will be accepted.

(f) Details of the experience he has had in the territory served by the Trade Commissioner.

(g) Information regarding previous connections, if any, which he has either with agents or importers. If connections still exist, what, if any, bearing will they have on fresh contacts that may be established through the efforts of the Trade Commissioner.

The Trade Commissioner will thus be in a position to make a survey of his territory, report the opportunities for the lines to be exported, and can then either place the exporter in communication with reliable importers or recommend suitable agents.

Canadian Government Trade Commissioner Offices

The following is a list of the Trade Commissioners and their offices together with the territories which for trade purposes have been assigned to each:

Note.—Bentley's Second Phrase Code is used by Canadian Trade Commissioners.

What the Canadian Exporter can do for the Trade Commissioner

The meagre information frequently furnished by Canadian exporters places a serious handicap on the Trade Commissioner in his efforts to market their products.

A general statement, therefore, of the facts about the exporter, his banking references, whether he is already engaged in foreign trade, and for what period and to what extent, are some of the essentials which should be given in the first letter either to the Department or to a Trade Commissioner, particularly the latter. He also wants general data about the commodity which the exporter wishes to sell in that particular market, noting any special advantages pertaining to the line offered, particularly as compared with well-known articles of the same type from other countries. He also wants to know exactly what the manufacturer is himself willing to do to place his goods in the new field: the basis on which sales would be made to the importer or on which goods could be offered for sale by a recognized agent, and the commission that would be paid the latter; what would be required of an importing house or agent in order to obtain the agency for the line; whether the manufacturer would send consignment stock or samples and in what quantity; whether he is prepared to advertise or to co-operate in advertising and to what extent; the facilities possessed by the manufacturer for export shipment, and the kind of supervision that is exercised by him over the packing of goods destined for a distant market.

Prices

Prices should never be quoted from an interior manufacturing point in Canada. Where quotations c.i.f. port of destination are not practicable, they should be given f.o.b. steamer, but it is strongly recommended that prices should be quoted c.i.f. This is a most important point, as the foreign buyer has no definite knowledge of the charges likely to be incurred if quotations are f.o.b. cars at port of shipment and freight rates from some interior point in Canada to the seaboard are unobtainable in foreign countries. He has no means of knowing insurance rates, or the elements that enter into the fixing of the premiums. As a rule he is unable to obtain a quotation of an outward freight rate at an inward port, as the general practice of steamship companies is to refer a request for a freight rate from (say) Montreal to Auckland to the agent in the former city, although an approximate rate may be quoted. The foreign buyer is at a distinct disadvantage unless prices are quoted c.i.f.

Discounts

Discounts should be printed, or typewritten, preferably on a folder or slip accompanying the catalogue. In submitting an illustrated descriptive catalogue to prospective customers the importer should not be placed in the position of having to disclose the exact terms on which the goods are offered to him.

Gross and Net Weight

A knowledge of the gross and net weights per unit quoted is essential. Without these the prospective purchaser is unable to estimate laid down costs.

Summary of Points to be Noted

The fullest possible information in regard to the commodity and complete details on the following points would greatly aid the Trade Commissioners in the intelligent handling of inquiries addressed to them as to the introduction and subsequent marketing of Canadian goods on behalf of exporters:—

1. Cable address, code used, and special code words not in the regular code books.
2. Bankers' references.
3. (a) The basis on which prices are quoted, whether c.i.f. main foreign ports; f.a.s. Canadian ports; or f.o.b. vessel.
    (b) Are prices in Canadian or American funds?
    (c) If prices are c.i.f. and transshipment has to be made, are such items as consular charges and disbursements at port of transshipment and/or unloading for account of buyer?
4. Are quotations firm, or subject to change without notice due to fluctuations in costs of raw material?
5. On what quantity basis are quotations made? Can prices be reduced on quantity orders and if so how much?
6. Are orders subject to acceptance by exporter?
7. What brand do lines bear, and are these to be sold under this brand in foreign markets?

8. What is the nature of packing? Heavy wooden crates, boxes, new bags or burlap?
9. Are lines stocked and available for immediate shipment? If not, how long after receipt of order will goods go forward?
10. What are your terms? Is there a special discount for cash?
11. What is the gross and net weight in pounds? Measurement in cubic feet?

With the foregoing information on hand, supplemented by recent catalogues and descriptive literature, and, if not too bulky, samples—not necessarily a full range—Trade Commissioners are put in a position to give the best service to Canadian exporters and can either place them in communication with reliable importers or recommend suitable agents.

Foreign Tariffs Division

The Foreign Tariffs Division of the Department of Trade and Commerce furnishes information on the tariffs and trade regulations in force in all countries to which Canadian goods are exported. The information supplied relates to rates of duty applicable to particular goods, commercial treaties, methods of valuation for duty purposes, anti-dumping legislation, Empire content required for tariff preferences, prescribed forms of certificates of origin, invoicing and consular procedure, merchandise marks laws, food standards, animal and plant pest regulations, import prohibitions, licensing, quota restrictions, exchange control and related subjects. The Division answers specific enquiries from exporters, issues circulars, and prepares articles for the Commercial Intelligence Journal. It co-operates with other branches of the government service in assembling data for tariff negotiations between Canada and other countries.

Subsidized Steamship Services

Under the Mail Subsidies and Steamship Subventions Branch of the Department of Trade and Commerce, subsidies for ocean services have been paid to assist in the maintenance of trade communications between Canada and other countries for the use of Canadian exporters and for the maintenance and development of our foreign markets; and also for the carriage of mails between Canada and certain foreign countries.

Local services are subsidized to assist in maintaining adequate transportation by water, chiefly along the Atlantic and Pacific coasts of Canada, for passengers, mails and freight.

Since the outbreak of war nearly all local subsidized services have been continued, but the subsidized ocean services have gradually disappeared under war conditions, practically all ocean shipping now being under some form or other of Government control.

In addition to carrying on these activities the Director of the Branch has represented the Department of Trade and Commerce on inter-departmental committees formed either before or after the outbreak of war, including the Canadian Shipping Board, of which he is Vice-Chairman, the Ship Licensing Committee, the War Risk Insurance Committee, and a number of other committees which have completed their work.

Publicity and Advertising Branch

The Publicity and Advertising Branch of the Department of Trade and Commerce was organized in 1927. The primary objects of this Branch were to disseminate informative reading matter throughout Canada and to various parts of the world, exclusive of Great Britain and Europe, and also to place certain advertising in publications interested in various phases of trade and commerce, both internal and external. The Branch distributes every week the Canadian News Letter, of approximately 2,000 words, covering a fairly wide range of Canadian activities. This news letter is sent to all Trade Commissioners, and to quite a number of other persons directly interested. The Branch also distributes every week for Canadian consumption a compendium of news received from Canadian Trade Commissioners. The advertising placed by the Branch is largely directed to manufacturers, exporters and business executives, and stresses the services which are rendered by the Department of Trade and Commerce, with particular reference to wartime shipping restrictions and quotas allowed, both import and export.

Under the supervision of the Branch and with the close co-operation of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics and the Bureau of Translations, a Portuguese edition of the Canadian handbook for distribution in Brazil was issued during the year. A Spanish edition for distribution in other Latin American countries was published last year.

Exhibitions and Publicity Services

The Exhibitions and Publicity Services in the United Kingdom are a consolidation under the Department of Trade and Commerce of all publicity services—advertising, exhibitions, etc.

An Advisory Committee on Publicity, under the Chairmanship of the High Commissioner, supervises the expenditures for advertising and publicity in the United Kingdom. The members of this committee include the Chief Canadian Trade Commissioner in the United Kingdom, and representatives of the Department of External Affairs on the staff of the High Commissioner. An opportunity to attend these meetings and submit items for the agenda is afforded representatives in London of other government departments, including Agriculture, Fisheries and Mines and Resources.

Since the outbreak of war the Exhibitions Branch in the United Kingdom has been closed but the Publicity Committee are endeavouring to maintain established contacts.

The Exhibition Commission maintains an office in Ottawa. During the year 1943 the activities of this office have been devoted to preparation of displays for the promotion of the war effort. A series of naval exhibits were arranged and shown in principal cities across Canada, covering an itinerary of some seventeen cities.

The Dominion Bureau of Statistics

A Commission on Statistics in 1912 recommended a series of specific reforms and enlargements in Canadian statistics, and a policy of statistical co-ordination for the Dominion, under central direction.

Following the recommendations of this report, the office of Dominion Statistician was created in 1915 and three years later the Dominion Bureau of Statistics was set up by statute as a central statistical organization.

Since its organization in 1918, the Bureau has created out of many heterogeneous units a unified, nation-wide statistical system in which the correlation of the several subjects and their interpretation from a comprehensive national viewpoint has been the primary objective. By means of Dominion-Provincial statistical conferences held from time to time, a useful degree of co-operation and uniformity of statistical classification and method has been achieved and progress along these lines continues. These main advantages of statistical centralization have not only been substantially attained, but the treatment of statistics, not merely as aggregations of figures, but as primary data from which complex social and economic phenomena may be interpreted, has been emphasized. This view of a true national statistic as revealing the controlling economic forces that operate and their interplay, and the value of such a statistic in administrative planning along national lines, involves, of course, an added function of the Bureau, viz., its usefulness as a national laboratory for economic and social research. This is a development that, as yet, is in its infancy but the foundation of such a service, comparable with the increasing importance of Canada in the economic and political world, has already been laid.

As now organized, the Branches of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics are: I. Administration; II. Census; III. Vital Statistics; IV. Agricultural Statistics; V. Fisheries and Animal Products; VI. Mining, Metallurgical and Chemical; VII. Forestry and Allied Industries; VIII. General Manufactures; IX. External Trade (Imports and Exports); X. Prices; XI. Merchandising and Services; XII. International Payments; XIII. Construction; XIV. Transportation and Public Utilities; XV. Financial Statistics; XVI. Employment Statistics; XVII. Judicial Statistics; XVIII. Education Statistics; XIX. Census of Institutions; XX. Industrial Research and Social Analysis; XXI. Canada Year Book; XXII. Business Statistics.

While primarily serving the Government, the Bureau realizes that, in a democratic community, every citizen is a part of the Government and should be well informed regarding the social and economic conditions of his country. Accordingly, the Bureau furnishes to all applicants answers to all manner of questions on all sorts of topics. In particular, it supplies to business men of all classes information regarding business conditions and statistics regarding production, imports, exports, prices, stocks, etc., of all kinds of commodities, thus enabling them to direct their operations more effectively to their own greater advantage and to the greater advantage of Canada. Special tabulations may be made, or other investigations carried out at a fee based only on the extra clerical costs to the Bureau.

Canada Grain Act

Under the Canada Grain Act of 1912 the Board of Grain Commissioners for Canada was created as a semi-judicial and administrative body to administer the Act. Its duties and powers are to provide for the inspection and weighing of grain; to license and supervise the operation of grain elevators; to register warehouse receipts for grain delivered to terminal and eastern elevators; to collect and collate grain statistics; to maintain a grain research laboratory; to operate terminal elevators constructed by the Dominion Government; and to inquire into any matter upon or without complaint made relating to the handling of grain under the Act. It also administers the Inland Water Freight Rates Act.

The board, which consists of a chief commissioner and two commissioners, has its offices in Winnipeg. Four assistant commissioners, stationed respectively at Winnipeg, Calgary, Saskatoon and Fort William, investigate complaints and thereafter make a full report to the board. In addition to the executive offices, which include the secretary with clerical staff, the Licence and Bonding and Statistics Branches, the organization comprises the Inspection, Weighing and Registration branches, the management of the Canadian Government Elevators, the Grain Appeal Tribunals to decide on appeals from decisions of grain inspecting officers, Committees on Grain Standards to select and settle standards for the different grades of grain in the Eastern and Western divisions, and the Grain Research Laboratory.

Inspection offices are located at Winnipeg, Calgary and Edmonton for primary inspection, at Fort William and Vancouver for terminal and final inspection, at Montreal, Toronto and Chatham for resampling and checking western grain passing through the Eastern division, and grading grain grown in the Eastern division. Inspection services are also maintained at all other points at which terminal elevators are situated. The Weighing Branch provides weighing services on all grain delivered to or shipped from terminal elevators and maintains staffs at all points at which terminal elevators are situated. The Registration Branch records all terminal and Eastern warehouse receipts and transfer receipts for grain unloaded into terminal or Eastern elevators, and cancels these receipts when the grain is shipped. Of the public terminal elevators constructed by the Department of Trade and Commerce only those at Moose Jaw, Saskatoon, Lethbridge, Calgary, Edmonton, and Prince Rupert are now maintained and operated by a general manager under the board. The Grain Research Laboratory at Winnipeg acts in an advisory capacity to the board, conducts investigations to determine the value of the different grades and varieties of grain, and investigates problems connected with grading, transportation and storage, moisture content and other problems peculiar to grain.

The Board is also charged with the administration of The Grain Futures Act, 1939. The provisions of this Act, however, had not been put into force at January 1st, 1941.

Under The Prairie Farm Assistance Act of 1939 the Board collects from producers in the three Prairie Provinces and the Peace River District of British Columbia one per centum of the purchase price of all Western wheat, oats, barley and rye sold to licensees under the Canada Grain Act.

Under the provisions of Order in Council P.C. 10229, dated 19 November, 1942, the Board collects the levy for War Risk Insurance on grain.

Export Permit Branch

The purposes of export control are to prevent exports falling into enemy hands, to ensure sufficient supplies at home, and, by diverting as much as possible to allied sources, to ensure maximum efficiency in our war effort and that of our allies. Export control can also be used as a potent economic weapon in securing concessions from other countries and applying pressure to pro-enemy areas.

Since the beginning of the war the scope of export control has widened rapidly. In 1939 and 1940 not more than two or three dozen commodities, mostly strategic metals, were under export control. Since then the number of controlled commodities has grown rapidly as shortages have risen suddenly, often in completely unexpected directions. Many materials which in the first years of the war were not in short supply, have since then, as in the case of imports from the Far East, become almost unobtainable, and war conditions have everywhere created abnormal markets and demands. At present the list of commodities under export control covers almost every commodity known in commerce, including not only Canada's normal exports but also a large number of imported goods.

The routine every-day processing of export permit applications is as follows:

Copies of the application are submitted to Controllers, Administrators or various Government Departments interested in exports from the viewpoint of supply; consignee and destination are investigated and checked, and if further investigation is necessary (as for example, regarding shipments to the Middle East), United Kingdom authorities or authorities in the importing country are consulted before the permit is issued; if quotas have been established, the application is balanced against the existing quota. Finally after consideration from every angle, the permit is granted or refused. Permits cannot be issued at a moment's notice, and exporters have been urged repeatedly on accepting foreign orders to apply for an export permit immediately, so that, should shipping space be available, there may be no delay in securing the necessary export permit, or should the shipment be one which may not be approved, the manufacturer will not be put to the expense of making up goods which he will not be allowed to ship and will only have left on his hands. In cases where the manufacture of goods is expected to take some time, the manufacturer should take advantage of the special clearance process which the Export Permit Branch has developed. An application is submitted and if approved, a Clearance Certificate is issued to the exporter, which is an assurance that he will be granted an export permit when the goods are finally ready for shipment. Naturally, with the supply situation continually changing, great care is exercised in issuing such Clearance Certificates, since a commodity in plentiful supply today may be in short supply within a few months.

During 1943 the easing of the shipping situation along the Atlantic Coast made the issuance of shipping priorities no longer necessary, but exporters shipping to Latin America must still make application for freight space on Ocean-going vessels, and Certificates of Necessity from the importing countries, as evidence that the shipment is essential for the war effort or for the domestic needs of the importing country, must still in many cases accompany applications for permits to export to Latin America. This requirement is not so rigid as formerly, since the Decentralization Plan "A" inaugurated in 1943 by the United States and Latin American countries, and adhered to by Canada, has been modified in a great many cases. Certain changes have also been made concerning shipments to Blockade areas—export permits and Imperial Export Licence Numbers are now valid for specific quarters of the year only. The list of Blockade countries also has altered, and exporters intending to ship there or to any Middle East destination are advised to contact the Export Permit Branch before making definite arrangements. Another important influence during the past year has been the application of price ceilings which has affected Canadian export control more than in previous years. Commodities on which subsidies have been paid by the Dominion Government in order to maintain domestic ceiling prices have been placed under export control to secure return of the subsidy before the commodity leaves Canada, as such subsidies are not applicable to goods for export. As in previous years, the policy of co-operating with United States export control authorities has continued to influence Canada's export control. The United States, on which Canada depends for a large percentage of her imports, has for some time allowed goods to come freely to Canada which would not be allowed to go with the same freedom to other countries. It has thus become necessary that re-export of these goods from Canada be controlled, in order to prevent Canada being used as a "back door" for getting goods out of the United States to be shipped later to destinations not approved by United States authorities.

During the past year a number of Export Permit Regulations have been changed, among them the regulation exempting shipments by or for official bodies, Government Departments in Canada and the United Kingdom mainly. The Canadian Mutual Aid Board, which is at present supplying Canadian Aid to Russia and other allied nations, was recently added to this list. The partial shipment procedure, by which an exporter may forward several smaller lots instead of one large shipment under one export permit has also been amended and simplified. Special arrangements have been made with the United States and Newfoundland whereby Canada and the United States divide between them the supplying of Newfoundland's wartime and civilian needs. Surveys have been made and definite quotas set up for export shipments to Newfoundland. In addition, quotas have been set up for many commodities (mainly foods) shipped to the West Indies; and exporters are advised to see that whenever possible, orders from the West Indies or Newfoundland are covered by proper Certificates of Essentiality or Import Licences, copies of which should be forwarded with applications for permit to export to these destinations. The same is true of nearly all British Empire Countries.

The Canadian Shipping Board

The Canadian Shipping Board was established by Order-in-Council, P.C. 4251, dated December 21st, 1939, as a special wartime agency (1) to co-ordinate the activities of the various government department and agencies concerned with wartime shipping, (2) to devise measures for meeting Canada's wartime shipping problems and (3) to provide a Canadian governmental agency capable of dealing directly, and co-operating effectively, with the United Kingdom Ministry of Transport which, following the outbreak of the war, had assumed complete control over British merchant ships and shipping.

At present, the powers and duties of the Board as specifically defined in Order-in-Council, P.C. 6785 of July 31st, 1942, (which amended and superseded P.C. 4251) are:

(a) to control the voyages of all Canadian merchant vessels over 150* gross tons, other than fishing vessels;
(b) to issue the licenses required to implement the above control. These licenses which are dealt with by the Board's Ship Licensing Committee may be issued for particular voyages or to cover voyages within certain general waters within a stated period of time;
(c) to deal with applications for transportation and priority of movement with respect to the transport of materials and supplies other than those consigned to the Government of the United Kingdom or of any other country, by water between ports in Canada or between ports in Canada and ports in the United Kingdom, or any other of his Majesty's Dominions, or in any other state;
(d) to recommend to the departments concerned, or to the Governor in Council, policies or specific measures designed to assist in providing water transport for Canadian import, export and domestic requirements; and
(e) to maintain close liaison with the United Kingdom Ministry of War Transport and the appropriate departments or agencies of the Government of the United States.

Additional authority is conferred on the Board under Regulation 44 of the Defence of Canada Regulations by which it may also control Canadian ships in respect of the following matters (supplementary to those mentioned above)

(a) the classes of cargoes or passengers which may be carried in the ship; and
(b) the chartering of the ship, and the terms and conditions upon which cargoes or passengers may be carried in the ship.

Originally, the Board was concerned largely with providing adequate shipping space for the sea transportation of materials shipped abroad, but as the war progressed, the maintenance of export trade became a matter of less consequence and the Board's principal present work is (1) to provide or secure space for the orderly movement of essential priority materials into Canada, (2) to co-operate with the B.M.W.T. and W.S.A. in providing shipping space for the outward movement from Canadian ports of Canadian materials required by allied and friendly countries and, (3) to control and direct the shipping required for essential bulk cargo movements on the Great Lakes, St. Lawrence and coastal waters of Canada.

To perform these functions, the Board through its Ship Licensing Committee controls the voyages of all Canadian merchant vessels of 100 gross tons and over, other than fishing vessels, in order to ensure that they are employed to the best advantage in the prosecution of the war. It also controls the chartering of all such vessels by Canadian interests and, in conjunction with the British Ministry of War Transport and with the War Shipping Administration of the United States, has placed ceilings on time-charter rates payable for vessels, in order to prevent inflation in water transportation costs. In consultation with the Canadian Department of Transport, it exercises control over the sale of Canadian vessels to foreign registry in order to prevent ships essential to Canada's war effort being removed from Canadian registry, and it is the central organization through which the Canadian Armed Services funnel their requests for merchant vessels required by them for special service.

Through its Representatives in London and Washington, the Board maintains close contact with the British and American government shipping authorities in order that the operations of the Canadian merchant fleet may be integrated efficiently with those of the U.K. and U.S. in the overall allied war effort. The Board also, through its Ship's Privilege License system, co-operates with those authorities in discouraging neutral vessels from engaging in trades helpful to the enemy.

The members, officers and representatives of the Board, who are all private shipping experts, or Senior Federal Government Officers, are as follows:

Members:

A. L. W. MacCallum, O.B.E., Chairman and Director of Shipping;
  Manager, The Shipping Federation of Canada.
F. E. Bawden, Vice-Chairman;
  Director of Trade Routes and Steamship Subsidies, Department of Trade and Commerce.
Captain E. S. Brand, O.B.E., R.C.N.,
  Director of Trade Division, Naval Service, Department of National Defence.
Captain J. W. Kerr,

* Reduced to "100 gross tons and over" in January 1944.

Supervisor of Nautical Services, Department of Transport.
T. C. Lockwood, Transport Controller, Montreal.
J. S. Macdonald, Counsellor, Department of External Affairs.
A. W. Merriam, Department of National Revenue.

Secretary:
Bruce A. Macdonald, Canadian Government Trade Commissioner, Department of Trade and Commerce.

Representatives in London, England:
Frederic Hudd, Chief Canadian Government Trade Commissioner in U.K., Canada House, London, S.W. 1.
James A. Langley, Canadian Government Trade Commissioner.

Representative in Washington:
A. L. Lawes, 5075 Commerce Building, Washington, D.C.

Representative in India:
Paul Sykes, Canadian Government Trade Commissioner, P.O. Box 886, Bombay, India.

Representative in Vancouver:
J. H. Hamilton, Marine Building, Vancouver, B.C.

Representative in Halifax:
A. T. O'Leary, 611 Bank of Nova Scotia Building, Halifax, N.S.

Representative in Saint John:
H. E. Kane, 145 Prince William St., Saint John, N.B.

Shipping Priorities Committee

The Shipping Priorities Committee was established by an Order-in-Council dated October 31, 1941, the duties being to ascertain Canadian shipping space requirements, to determine the degree of priority or urgency of such requirements and the extent to which they can be met by the use of ships of Canadian registry or of ships provided by the British Ministry of War Transport. Having made such determinations, the Shipping Priorities Committee is charged with the duty of presenting "to the competent authority of the Government of the United States requests for the allotment of cargo space . . . " on ships controlled by the War Shipping Administration to enable Canadian requirements to receive equal consideration with those of the United States. In the early stages, the Committee was concerned only with import shipping space requirements and priorities, on the basic understanding that Canadian exports should move in accordance with any priority system which importing countries might desire to establish. However, when the United States instituted a system of priorities and shipping space allocations to the Latin American Republics, the Shipping Priorities Committee developed a means of placing Canadian requirements before the Board of Economic Warfare in Washington.

The Shipping Priorities Committee compiles a Shipping Priority List covering essential import requirements showing the quantities and sources of supply of each commodity together with the priority rating assigned. This List is highly confidential as the information it contains would be of value to the enemy. The estimated requirements are broken down to show the quantities of goods which will be moved by the Canadian Shipping Board and the British Ministry of War Transport, and the quantity which the War Shipping Administration have been requested to carry for Canadian account. The contents of the Shipping Priorities List are communicated to the various shipping companies who will carry cargo in accordance with its priority rating and commodities not listed are moved only if spare space is available. The Committee has worked very closely with the Division of Stockpiling and Transportation of the War Production Board and with the United States Shipping Priorities Committee. Canada's space requirements have received very sympathetic consideration and a very large quantity of goods for Canada was carried on United States vessels in 1942 and 1943.

With respect to export shipments, the Shipping Priorities Committee is at present only directly concerned with those to Latin America. The only regular steamer services are operating from United States ports and the space is allocated by the Foreign Economic Administration in consultation with the War Shipping Administration. Machinery has been set up by which the Shipping Priorities Committee submits applications to the Foreign Economic Administration on behalf of Canadian exporters to Latin America thus securing a fair share of the shipping space which is available.

The officers of the Committee are Trade Commissioners and the staff has been drawn largely from the Department of Trade and Commerce.

Foreign Exchange Control Board

General Principles

The main purpose of foreign exchange control is to balance as far as possible Canada's income and outgo of United States dollars in order to ensure that United States dollars will be available as required to obtain vital war and other imports and at the same time to meet contractual obligations payable in United States currency. Exports are Canada's largest source of United States dollars and it is a fundamental principle of exchange control that all exports from Canada to the United States and to all other countries outside the sterling area should produce United States dollars or foreign currencies which may be freely converted into United States dollars and that such United States dollars be made available to the Foreign Exchange Control Board. Payment for exports to countries in the sterling area may be obtained in any foreign currency or in Canadian dollars since the operation of similar Exchange Controls in those countries ensures that Canadian dollars used to pay for exports from Canada have been derived through properly authorized channels.

Export Licence

In order that the Board may ensure that Canada's exports do make available the proper kind and amounts of foreign exchange, it is necessary for it to know what exports are being made and when and by whom payment for such exports has been or will be received. Accordingly, a licence on the Board's Form B, which is consolidated with the export entry form required by the Canadian Customs, is required for every export of goods from Canada for which Customs ordinarily require an export entry. The form is not required in any other case. A Collector of Customs and Excise issues Form B on behalf of the Board at the time the relative Customs export entry is filed with him, although in some cases where the export is to a non-sterling area country and is not going to produce foreign exchange, the prior approval of an Authorized Dealer (a chartered bank) or of the Board is required.

The Board does not exercise any control over the kinds of goods which may be exported and its licence serves merely as a declaration that goods have been legally exported from Canada, of the kind and amount of payment which has been or is to be received and of the time when such payment has been or will be received. The Board's licence does not authorize any export which is prohibited or for which a licence or permit is required under any other law.

Payment for Exports

Exports to the United States and to all other countries outside the sterling area must ordinarily be made for payment within six months of shipment in United States dollars or foreign currencies which may be freely converted into United States dollars. Exports to the sterling area may be made for payment in sterling or in any other foreign currency or in Canadian dollars. NOTE: The "Sterling area" means and includes territories under the sovereignty, protection, suzerainty, or mandate of His Majesty (except Canada and Newfoundland) and also includes Egypt, the Anglo-Egyptian Sudan, Belgian Congo, Ruanda-Urundi, Iceland, the Faroe Islands, French Cameroons, French Equatorial Africa (composed of Chad, Ubanghi-Chari, Middle Congo and Gaboon), French Settlements in India, French Oceania, Syria, Lebanon, Iraq and Madagascar and its Dependencies.

Except with the special permission of the Board, goods already imported into Canada which have been or are to be paid for in United States funds may not be exported to a sterling area country other than for payment in United States dollars unless the goods have been processed in Canada.

When an exporter receives payment for an export in United States dollars (or a currency freely convertible into United States dollars), he is required to offer the foreign exchange for sale to his Authorized Dealer and to complete a declaration on the Board's Form C (Declaration of Foreign Exchange Offered for Sale) as evidence that he has obtained and made available to the Board the proper kind and amount of foreign exchange arising out of the export.

If price lists are issued in terms of Canadian dollars subject to eventual payment in United States dollars, the conversion rate which should be applied is the official buying rate for United States dollars quoted by the Board. It may be noted that at the time of writing, the official buying rate is 10% premium on U.S. funds and this rate has been in effect since the inception of Control. Therefore, if an exporter has an invoice for $100 Canadian currency, he must secure at least $90.90 United States currency in order that he may ultimately be credited with the face value of $100 Canadian currency when he sells his foreign exchange to the bank. Therefore, to arrive at the amount of United States dollar payable, the face value of the invoice in Canadian dollars should be discounted by 9.09%.

In connection with the requirement that exports to non-sterling area countries be paid for in U.S. funds, Authorized Dealers will pay spot rates for forward sales of United States dollars. Accordingly, a Canadian exporter can cover himself for forward exchange in United States dollars without any additional cost. Suppose a Canadian exporter has an export shipment amounting to $1,100 in Canadian funds, but converts this to $1,000 United States funds and draws a draft on his customer abroad for 90 days, and presents this draft to his bank in Canada for collection. At the same time that he presents this draft for collection, he can sell forward his $1,000 United States currency, which he will not receive for 90 days, for $1,100 Canadian currency.

Special Permits

As outlined above, the ordinary procedure with respect to exports of goods is that the exporter must account for and declare and sell to his Authorized Dealer as soon as received the foreign exchange received for each export. In order to facilitate the carrying on of ordinary commercial transactions and the continuance of the previous practices of certain types of exporters, the Board has, however, established various special procedures. In appropriate cases, special permits are issued by the Board under which the permit holder, instead of accounting for the proceeds of each individual shipment, furnishes the Board with periodic reports containing the information the Board requires. The Board's examiners may examine the permit holders' books and records in order to verify the reports made to the Board and obtain any other information required.

Export of Capital

One of the primary purposes of the Foreign Exchange Control Order is to prevent unauthorized exports of capital and exporters should note that, unless the approval of the Board has been obtained, it constitutes an export of capital and is an offence under the Order—

(a) To export from Canada to a country outside the sterling area and Newfoundland property for which no settlement has been or is to be received, or

(b) To sell any property for export to a country outside the sterling area or Newfoundland, or to sell any property exported from Canada to such a country, or to export from Canada to such a country any property which has been sold on terms which provide for payment of a price less than the fair value thereof or on terms which provide for payment more than six months after shipment, or

(c) To fail to take reasonable steps to collect a debt owing by a non-resident with respect to goods or other property exported or to be exported from Canada to a country outside the sterling area or Newfoundland or to grant an unreasonable extension of time for payment of any such debt.

Further Information

Full information respecting the various Foreign Exchange Control Board forms required to be filled out by Canadian exporters is contained in circulars which have been issued by the Canadian Manufacturers' Association from time to time. More detailed information concerning the Board's policy with respect to exports may be found in the Board's Bulletin No. 2 entitled "Exports of Goods" which may be obtained on request from any Office of the Board.

Five Methods of Doing Export Business

On the following pages will be found articles by experienced Canadian exporters on methods of conducting export business before the war. Since the outbreak of hostilities many changes have occurred and exchange, shipping and import and export trade are controlled. It was thought, however, that as supplies became available and trading restrictions were relaxed this background of information would be valuable and the various methods could be modified to meet new developments.

These articles do not include all known methods, but they do cover the majority of recognized methods that so far have proved successful in Canada. Many firms operate combinations of these methods, depending on the types of markets to which they are selling. Each method should be considered in the light of the characteristics of one's own business and of the possible proportions to which the export side of it may grow.

The five methods range from the comparatively simple task of handling a highly specialized line by mail and the co-operation of Trade Commissioners to the handling of a very wide range of articles all used in the same trade by means of the establishment of wholesale branches of the Canadian house abroad.

Each method has its dangers and difficulties as well as advantages, and each is specially suited to certain general classes of business or types of distribution in export markets. No matter what method is adopted there is little doubt that a personal investigation of overseas markets by a principal or chief executive of the Canadian firm is the best preliminary in the development of successful export business. The initial costs of an investigation of this type may seem high at the time, but in most cases expenditures of this kind have proved to be a successful investment.

METHOD NO. 1

Development of an Export Trade Through Branches in Other Countries, Owned by the Parent Exporting Manufacturer in Canada

(Suitable for companies with a diversified product, most or all of which can find extensive export markets subjected to world-wide competition.)

The manufacturer who is endeavouring to build up an export trade to provide an increased and permanent outlet for his products and not simply looking for a channel through which to dispose of some surplus stock provided for domestic trade or to take up some plant capacity temporarily available should consider carefully the advisability of doing so through his own branches abroad, provided, of course, that his line is of a nature to warrant this consideration.

In contemplating the organization of a branch in a foreign country a great many conditions require to be taken into consideration. The territory should therefore be carefully surveyed to ascertain not only the present demand for his product but the possibility of increase in this demand for the future and how this increase is to come about. The state of the local industry and the competition therefrom, as well as competition from other sources requires to be looked into; also the possibility of securing a sufficient number of dealers of a satisfactory type to handle the lines; the general financial standing of these dealers and their attitude toward meeting obligations when due. Study should also be made of local preferences and prejudices, as it is surprising the influence these have in some parts of the world. Customs Tariffs and the possibility of revisions thereto; location for branch headquarters at a point where there are ample facilities at reasonable cost for the reception and storage of bulk stocks, as well as convenient and adequate transportation service for distribution, also require to be looked into. These, and a number of other matters which will suggest themselves, should be carefully investigated in order to give the question intelligent consideration and arrive at a decision.

If, after investigation, the manufacturer is satisfied that a sufficient demand for his product exists in a certain country and is also satisfied that conditions generally would warrant consideration being given to the establishing of a branch selling organization there, then the advantages and disadvantages of the branch system will require to be carefully weighed.

Marketing through a branch selling organization presents several advantages:

1.—The entire effort of the selling organization is concentrated on the one line and there are therefore no diverting interests as is frequently the case where a jobbing house handles a large range of goods. The manufacturer's products under the branch system cannot at any time be treated as a side line to be ignored when goods returning a greater margin of profit can be sold. Travellers and salesmen are not tempted to follow the line of least resistance as is possible where they have optional lines to offer to a dealer.

2.—If a line is one requiring service of any kind, the manufacturer can ensure his own and his customers' interests being properly cared for by providing a service staff having a thorough and expert knowledge of his goods, and it is recognized that an efficient service, where required, brings increased trade.

3.—A branch selling organization enables a manufacturer to keep more closely in touch with the requirements of the market and therefore be in a position to meet, or even anticipate, changing demands on the part of the purchasing public.

4.—In operating through a branch selling organization, the manufacturer can plan and carry on an advertising and selling campaign best suited to the sale of his lines and is free to take such action as he may consider necessary to meet any unusual conditions which may arise from time to time without having to depend upon or to consider first the interests of the importing jobber.

5.—From the standpoint of financial risk, instead of having one or two large accounts, the manufacturer will have a number of smaller accounts scattered throughout the country. In the opinion of many, a number of smaller accounts is an advantage as, after all, there is something to be said in favour of not putting the eggs all in one basket.

6.—It is reasonable to expect that the expense involved in the operating of a branch selling organization could be met by the additional margin obtained through selling direct to the dealers instead of to a large importing jobber. Even if the Branch could not do better than break even on its operations, the manufacturer would still have the advantage of his manufacturing profit on a larger volume.

7.—An esprit de corps can be developed which is a valuable asset in any selling organization.

There are, of course, some disadvantages, for instance:

1.—During a seasonal slackness or a period of temporary depression, when the demand for the manufacturer's particular product may drop off, the selling organization is handicapped through not having other lines with which to fill in.

2.—The necessity of carrying stocks which, in dealing with a large importing jobber, would very likely have been sold outright. This carrying of stocks also involves the making of provision against obsolescence.

3.—The handling and following up of numerous smaller accounts.

4.—A somewhat increased overhead at headquarters because of the necessity for executive supervision.

There are no doubt other disadvantages, some more applicable to one line than to another; however, the advantages of operating through a branch selling organization would appear to much more than offset the disadvantages, assuming, of course, that the manufacturer's line is sufficiently large and varied, the demand sufficient, and conditions generally favourable to operating in this way.

Except for the Chief Executive and perhaps one or two key men, an overseas branch should be staffed by men who speak the language of the country and who have an intimate knowledge of the country, its requirements, the people and their customs. The Branch Manager, or Chief Executive, should be one who is thoroughly familiar with the Company's products and policies and one who possesses good sound judgment. Located as he usually is, thousands of miles away from headquarters, he is frequently called upon to deal with important problems requiring prompt attention which cannot be conveniently or adequately discussed with his Head Office by telegraph or even by telephone, which is now available.

Several Canadian companies are already operating through branch houses abroad. No doubt any of them would be willing to assist other manufacturers contemplating operating in the same way by supplying whatever information they may have available.

METHOD NO. 2

Development of Export Trade Through Resident Agents or Representatives Visited at Intervals by Executive of Canadian Exporting Manufacturer.

(An excellent method that has worked out successfully in many lines as it provides for gradual growth and expansion, coupled with establishment of close personal relations with representatives and informing travel by export executive and an interchange of visits to the plant by representatives. This should be read in close conjunction with Method No. 3, with which it is closely allied.)

From a sales standpoint there are many advantages in having a resident agent, particularly if it is possible to have him visit the plant, get thoroughly acquainted with the product by closely following up through all stages of manufacture, meet the personnel of the Company, familiarize himself with the method of packing and general handling of export shipments.

A few of these advantages are as follows:

(1) A resident agent can approach customers with more confidence in the product as he is able to converse freely in the language of the country. From personal experience in the Far East and Continent of Europe, have found in many cases difficulty in getting anywhere on account of not being able to speak the language.

(2) A resident agent can keep principals posted on competitive lines and demands for necessary improvements to meet market conditions.

(3) Is in the position to revise and add to mailing lists of already established and prospective customers.

(4) Being in close touch with the financial standing of customers is able to take action on principal's behalf in the event of collection difficulties. In this connection might mention we give our resident agents authority to act on our behalf. If draft is refused, instead of costly cables and delays, it is immediately referred to the resident agent for further instructions.

(5) Is able to transfer shipments in event of disputes. In one or two cases, after shipment had left Canada, it was necessary to hold up on account of credit, which was taken care of by cable and turned over to resident agent for disposal elsewhere.

(6) Is in the position to investigate orders or enquiries which may be received by principals direct.

The advantages of visiting resident agents, as the writer sees them, are many; preferably the President, Vice-President, General Manager, or Sales Manager, as in most cases it is best to make a decision on the spot so to speak. Naturally it is better that this executive should be in close touch with the Export Department.

Visits of this kind bring the line up to date, establish confidence between agents and principals, in addition to getting first hand information as to the class of house from which orders are being received.

Might I repeat again it is very desirable if possible, to have the agent visit the factory. The executive can very often obtain information regarding the sale of competitive lines which the agent does not always seem able to obtain. Manufacturing information can very often be picked up. A general size-up of the agent's ability and his connections can be intelligently made. How often have we sized up a man by correspondence and on making his acquaintance found a totally different person than we had pictured.

In some cases the resident agent is the most economical way of conducting export business, providing, of course, you have a real live agent. There is not any definite rule that I know of to select agents or representatives. I recall one time in Australia, of interviewing a resident agent who was not interested, but later on was approached by the same firm's branch in another city, by one of their Directors who saw possibilities in our line. The firm in question turned out to be live representatives.

There seems to be some element of luck in selecting agents or representatives. In order to avoid liability it might be better to classify as resident representatives not resident agents.

METHOD NO. 3

Development of Export Trade Through Resident Agents Abroad With No Personal Visits by a Representative of the Canadian Exporting Manufacturer.

(A very large number of Canadian manufacturers use this method, gradually moving towards Method No. 2, which supplements and strengthens it.)

The policy of appointing a resident Agent abroad without any personal supervision from a representative is one which is attended with many risks and much dissatisfaction unless preceded beforehand by a very careful investigation into:

(1) The standing of the individual or Company in the business community.
(2) His or their financial responsibility.
(3) Integrity.
(4) Business capabilities.
(5) Number and kind of other lines carried.

Too often the manufacturer looking for export business will accept the first application received for an agency arrangement, without making the ordinary investigations which would be made upon receipt of a similar application on the domestic market. Even at the present time applications are constantly being received by exporters from many bright and well-intentioned people who, after seeing or hearing of a new line, think they can sell it against old and established importing agencies who have probably controlled their market on this line for a great many years and who if approached by some obscure individual with a competitive line would give it scant consideration. It is, therefore, vitally necessary that the business standing of an individual or company should be known, in order for your product to receive fair and impartial consideration.

This will also protect the intending exporter from the unscrupulous type of individual who sends in his application under an assumed company name, on very elaborately got up business note paper, with the intention of obtaining a good set of samples for nothing.

What emphasis should be placed on financial responsibility will depend entirely on whether the agent is going to act on a purely commission basis, merely soliciting orders and passing them on to the manufacturer for shipping and financing, or to buy direct himself and in turn resell to the trade.

The integrity of an agent should be unquestionable, because any suspicion of sharp practices would immediately reflect on the company appointing the agent, and result in a definite restriction and loss of trade.

The business capability of the proposed agent should also be scrutinized; there should be a reputation for being thoroughly acquainted with all lines carried, ability to promote sales, judicious in the selection of customers and the granting of credit risks. Much profitable export business can easily be turned into serious and heavy losses unless the latter requirement is carefully followed.

Then it is very essential to know the number and kind of other lines carried, to ascertain if they are in any way complementary or competitive. It may be that the applicant is already carrying too many lines and it has been found in practice that there is a tendency to push only those lines easy to sell, or giving the greatest remuneration. Even if the agent is thoroughly reliable, it is difficult to become thoroughly acquainted with every item carried, with the result that the added new lines may suffer in comparison with the older ones. Often an agent will undertake to carry a competitive line just to prevent some other agent more favourably placed from obtaining it, sending in just sufficient orders to create the impression that an effort is being made to place the line on the market, but at the same time actually throttling its development.

There is no difficulty in obtaining resident agents overseas as an advertisement in any export Journal will bring a host of applicants, the majority of whom will guarantee to handle the line offered in the most efficient manner. The problem to solve is to be able to pick out from the replies received the one who will handle your line most successfully.

A much safer way is to entrust your agent problem to the Canadian Trade Commissioners, seeking their advice after giving them full information about your product.

It is not to be suggested that the right person or company will always be selected and in order to guard against errors of judgment and to protect them as far as possible, it would be advisable to limit the contract of any new agent appointed to one or two years, during which time you will have ample opportunity to check up and study the results obtained. If not satisfactory, the contract can then be broken off at the end of the stipulated period.

From the above it is very obvious that only the best type of individual or company should be chosen as your representative and the success or failure to open up an export market will depend very materially upon this.

The decision to appoint an individual or a company will depend to a great extent on the nature of the commodity to be exported, the distribution desired, and the extent of the market. In some countries it may be advisable to confine your agency to a large company who are in touch with all wholesale outlets, and while this may restrict the distribution, it has this compensation that credit risk is practically reduced to a minimum, and in some cases goods are paid for immediately upon receipt at the usual cash terms. Should it be the policy of the exporter to place his goods through as many outlets as possible, then the individual agent provides the best possible medium because he buys nothing for himself but simply solicits orders for the manufacturer and the greatest advantage lies in the ability of such a man to get business for his principals, from all possible buyers in his field. Another added advantage is that being constantly on the ground, he is able to take immediate advantage of every opportunity the moment it arises, and to adjust troubles and complaints that are almost certain to arise in the conduct of any business, whether it is foreign or domestic. Furthermore, there is bound to arise the question of extended and disputed drafts and he can safeguard payments and collections for his principals.

The agent's duties are not confined only to the securing of orders and some of his time will have to be spent in adjusting difficulties as they arise, also explaining away injudicious letters from the home office, for oftentimes a good connection is lost through a lack of tact and courtesy on the part of the sender.

The chief disadvantage in appointing an agent without personal supervision lies in the almost impossibility of making him or them acquainted with changes in business policy by means of a letter, no matter how well constructed it may be. It is then that close personal contact can explain away in a few minutes any misgivings held, what otherwise may take several letters spread over a considerable period. When export business is being operated at little or no profit it is difficult to explain by letter why an advertising allowance cannot be made or unreasonable claims accepted.

In summing up, it can safely be said that satisfactory business can be obtained by this method, although of course it will always lack that undefinable something which always comes with personal contact.

METHOD NO. 4

The Development of Export Trade Through Export Merchants, Export Buying Houses or Indent Houses.

(This method or really two methods in one, with many similar characteristics, offers a wide field for certain varieties of products but if used solely should be chosen with the utmost discretion. The Indent House Method can fit in by consent with Methods two and three and can be attempted simultaneously.

Co-operation with reliable indent houses in suitable cases provides a means of training members of manufacturers' staffs in export technique and provides specialized selling and personal contacts in export markets while retaining the identity of manufacturers' goods through to the customer.

In the "Export Merchants" discussion prospective exporters would do well to ponder seriously over the disadvantages mentioned.)

There are many manufacturers in Great Britain who have been able to secure a splendid volume of business overseas without ever having had even an export department of their own. They have secured this business through London houses operating as Export Merchants or through London Indent firms.

EXPORT MERCHANTS operate really as Export Wholesale Houses. They make an arrangement with a Manufacturer by which they will have the control of anything he makes that may be shipped overseas. If the Manufacturer receives an enquiry from abroad, he refers it to this Export Merchant. The Merchant buys for cash from the Manufacturer and turns around and quotes the merchandise to firms overseas at a price that will give him a profit. He takes all the credit responsibility and even arranges for proper distribution in any market where there would seem to be a demand for this particular product. He has Representatives who travel to different countries in the world and in this way keeps in touch with his connections abroad.

There are many advantages to the Manufacturer from handling his export business in this manner:

1. It costs him nothing to sell his goods. He may at times find it necessary to supply something in the way of samples but this is likely to be a small matter and if it really amounts to something, he can usually arrange to supply the samples at regular prices, less a sample discount.

2. He sells for cash and has no credit risk. Manufacturers are often concerned and rightly so, about the credit standing of firms overseas who may wish to buy their goods. Selling to the Export Merchant, he gets his money even sooner than for domestic sales.

3. He avoids the necessity of having an export department in his business. The Export Merchant looks after all details of shipping, insurance and invoicing and all the Manufacturer has to do is to ship his goods to Seaboard as directed and submit ordinary domestic invoices. The overseas correspondence is conducted by the Export Merchant, who is competent to look after this even if it be in a foreign language.

4. He increases the volume of business passing through his plant and in this way lowers his unit cost of production. This enables him to compete more successfully in his own market.

The disadvantages of this method are not great. There are one or two features that should be considered:

1. He will probably not know his customers overseas and if for any reason, the Export Merchant breaks his connection, he may lose his overseas business. However, the Export Merchant is not likely to do this so long as he gets good treatment from the Manufacturer. It costs money to develop a market and no one wishes to have to do it with a new product if he already has one established.

2. He will need to make sure that the Export Merchant has a distinct possibility to get business for it has been known to happen that representation of a line has been gotten to keep it off the market.

For that reason, it should only be given for an initial period of not too long so that if business does not result, he can take other means to get it.

INDENT FIRMS are really Buying Houses or Purchasing Houses in one country for firms located in other countries overseas. Many overseas firms prefer to have all their business attended to by their own buying offices located in centres of countries where manufacturing industries are plentiful. Such firms as these are often a good means of getting manufactured goods introduced to their overseas clients.

1. They usually buy for first class firms only.
2. They pay cash for all purchases.
3. They attend to all details of shipping, insurance, invoicing and correspondence.

On the other hand:

1. They take no responsibility for sales at all but simply place orders on definite instructions received from their clients.

2. They buy only for their own clients and it may be possible there are other firms in overseas countries who might be interested in the goods. The indent houses will not offer the goods for sale to other than their own clients. Their distribution therefore is limited unless a Manufacturer is dealing with a number of Indent Houses operating in the same overseas markets.

The number of Export Merchants and Indent Firms in Canada has been limited, due probably to the fact that it is only comparatively recently that Canadian Manufactured goods have been shipped in volume and variety to overseas markets. It is only reasonable to expect that their numbers will increase and in this way, there will be offered to Canadian Manufacturers a method of securing export business that is sound, economical and safe.

METHOD NO. 5

Development of Export Trade Direct by Mail.

(This method though useful for highly specialized products marketed to well-rated and substantial customers is fraught with many dangers unless subjected to the closest analysis. It is true it grows gradually to the point of becoming exactly like Method No. 3, but the initial stages of attempting to do business direct by mail, without previous intense and discriminating selection of risks, are full of pitfalls and form a pretext for the propagation of many useless schemes.)

Many Canadian industries, organized primarily to supply their domestic market, do not have the large organization nor the facilities necessary to maintain branches or even direct agents handling only their products in foreign markets.

In these days of specialization, the products of many plants must sometimes be sold in the export markets by commission agents handling kindred lines in order to spread the selling expense over sufficient volume to make export sales profitable. In fact, modern practice has resulted in many plants making only one particular line of goods often of interest only to some one trade or profession. Often this means a field so restricted it does not pay the producer to seek export business through ordinary channels. However, such specialized lines usually have the advantage of being of special interest and usefulness to certain definitely known trades or professions. Lists of prospects for such lines can be obtained and trade solicited in foreign, almost as easily as in the domestic market. It is possible in this way to eliminate expensive selling costs and create a demand for such goods as will permit some responsible agent to stock or supply them profitably.

Of course, wherever this is practical, a selling agent right on the ground is always much better and more satisfactory. A good agent can create connections not obtainable by mail and can always learn why prospects are not interested or correct any misunderstanding which no amount of correspondence might bring out. It is no different in foreign markets than at home. Every purchaser takes the easiest way and will usually pay more to be relieved of all details of which he knows little or nothing.

The local agent has special advantages over direct-by-mail solicitation in countries using other than the English language. A good agent will speak fluently the one or more languages used and can usually translate special instructions into English for the manufacturer, thus overcoming many chances of misinterpretation.

Even if carefully written and checked over, transcriptions from English to other languages are sometimes misleading. Often the correct version does not convey the idea or thought as well as if the letter were written in the dialect peculiar to the country in which the prospect resides.

Particularly in financial matters, the agent can secure reports, approach only good accounts and help with collections when necessary.

But in spite of all these drawbacks it is possible to do a good and profitable export business direct by mail with lines which could in no other way be exported to advantage. Goods of exceptional interest and usefulness to some definitely known trade or profession—possibly not ordinarily obtainable except on special order or which must be delivered in fresh condition. Especially such goods as can be sent by Parcel Post.

The first step is to secure an agent to handle deliveries and lists of interested users. This can usually be done with the aid of the Canadian Trade Commissioner in the market to be tried.

The Commissioner should be given full particulars of the product—samples where possible—and suggestions as to the class of trade likely to be interested. He will suggest an agent and the best source for obtaining lists of prospects. Usually he can secure good lists for the exporter. As an official Canadian representative, the Trade Commissioner often has access to records and information not ordinarily obtainable. In fact, he can usually give better advice and suggestions about the market he represents than could be obtained by months of direct investigation. It is his duty to assist in the sale of any Canadian product in his market. No better corps of expert salesmen could be had at any price than is available to every Canadian exporter.

Having arranged for handling deliveries and secured a list of prospects, a carefully prepared campaign for that particular market should be worked out. Letters should always be in the language of that market. When other than English, such letters should be very carefully translated. If time permits, it is always best to submit the suggested series of letters to the Trade Commissioner for O.K. Translations are often much clearer and get better results if in the particular style or dialect in use in the prospect's country.

Full and complete description—good illustrations, showing the goods and their uses—are essential to best results. Even if it does not pay to translate catalogues or circulars, sufficient explanation should be given in the letters to make their advantages and uses clear to the prospect.

Arrangements with the agent should be made to either stock or obtain goods promptly a demand has been created so as not to lose the benefit of direct solicitation. With the help of the Trade Commissioner, a good agent should be arranged for who will supply the demand. With reasonable prospects the agent can be induced to purchase some stock or if sent on consignment to guarantee payment as the goods are sold. Once the agent is convinced there is a profitable demand he will undertake selling on his own account.

There is no doubt that many Canadian products could be exported in this way if reasonable time and care were given all the necessary details. Export markets are particularly desirable to most Canadian manufacturers to permit increased volume production—not always possible in a comparatively restricted home market. Even if such exports are sold close to actual costs, they are a great advantage in absorbing overhead costs and creating steady employment of sometimes highly trained staffs.

One thing should be kept in mind always—for the good of all Canadian exporters. Once foreign trade has been solicited, be prepared to make prompt deliveries of thoroughly dependable goods offering good value. A manufacturer who solicits foreign business only while his trade is slack in Canada and fails to give good service on foreign business during rush times in domestic trade is creating a very bad opinion in foreign markets, not only of his own concern but on all his fellow exporters as well.

Let every Canadian exporter maintain the good reputation created by our Trade Commissioners and by our most successful exporters by good service, reliable goods and fair dealing.

Definitions of Technical Abbreviations used in Foreign Trade and Exchange Transactions.

The following list includes some of the principal abbreviations used in ocean shipping, transportation, marine insurance, and foreign exchange, as well as a number referring to standards, gauges, threads, dimensions, electrical and engineering terms. It was compiled with the assistance of our members, marine insurance companies, banks and departments of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association. It is hoped it will be useful both to Canadian exporters and importers of Canadian products abroad.

INDUSTRIAL CHANGES IN CANADA AS INDICATED BY THE 1943 CANADIAN TRADE INDEX

As a result of wartime controls the manufacture of a number of civilian products has been restricted or discontinued during the last year. It was decided, however, to leave the question of listing these products to the decision of individual firms, and it will be found that most of the classifications have been retained in the present edition. These firms have the experience and equipment to manufacture and supply the products to domestic and export markets when industrial and trade controls are relaxed. Following is a short summary of the various changes in the 1943 edition:

New Firms	234	Small Changes in firm name	234
Firms Deleted	224	New Headings	53
Changes of Name	66	Headings Deleted	74
Changes of address and location	173	Headings Changed	58

NEW MEMBERS

Most new members of the Association will be found listed in the alphabetical and classified sections of the Index.

Names of member firms received too late to be included are to be found in the additions at the end of the alphabetical section.

Export Trade Policies and Services of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association

A Resumé of Established Export Trade Services, Modifications During the War and Preparations for After the War.

The Constitution of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, which was organized in 1871 and incorporated by Act of Parliament in 1902, provides that "The objects of this Association shall be to promote Canadian industries and to further the interests of Canadian manufacturers and exporters, and to render such services and assistance to the members of the Association and to manufacturers and exporters generally, as the Association may deem advisable from time to time."

In 1900 the Association had its own special representatives in Great Britain, Europe, Australia, New Zealand, South Africa and the West Indies. Special trade enquiries were forwarded to members, and financial reports obtained on overseas firms.

Commencing in 1901 the Association made strong representations to the Canadian Government to establish a Dominion Canadian Trade Commissioner Service. With the expansion of this Service, with offices in various countries of the world, the direct representation of the Association abroad gradually lapsed and the Association has co-operated very closely with the Department of Trade and Commerce and the Canadian Government Trade Commissioner Service.

The wide ramifications of subjects now falling under the classification of export trade necessitate their allocation to various departments of the Association which are staffed by specialists, have up-to-date records and other data, and are in a position to advise and secure practically any information on various phases of export trade. Export matters which are of special concern to provinces are dealt with by the Association's divisional offices and committees. All these activities are co-ordinated.

Departments Co-ordinate Activities

Thus the Commercial Intelligence Department handles credit information on overseas firms, overseas buyers and trade enquiries, translations, etc.;

The Tariff Department—Empire and foreign tariffs and tariff preference conditions, invoicing requirements, consular regulations, export drawbacks, trade and exchange restrictions, import licensing requirements, etc.;

The Transportation Department—shipping documents, rail and ocean rates, air mail rates, etc.;

The Legal Department—business taxation, agreements with sales agents abroad, commercial laws of foreign countries;

The Publishing and Commercial Intelligence Departments—publication of Industrial Canada and the "Canadian Trade Index."

The Ottawa office—liaison with government departments and boards, obtaining rulings, interpretations, etc.;

The London, England, office, i.e., The Canadian Chamber of Commerce in Great Britain Inc. —A variety of matters relating to Anglo-Canadian trade.

The progress, extension and demands of war have altered our trading relations with all countries, and Canadian manufacturers are now operating under a framework of controls that affect not only their export but their import business. A number of new subjects relating to export and import trade have arisen and these are being dealt with by the appropriate department and members advised of all developments. These include: foreign exchange control in Canada and other countries, control of exports from and imports into Canada, regulations prohibiting trading with the enemy, price control, mutual aid, control of shipping, United States wartime regulations governing in-transit shipments.

As supplies of goods become available and controls are relaxed the various departments of the Association under the direction of committees will adapt their export services to meet changing conditions.

Facilities for Assisting Exporters

We submit below some of the facilities of the Association for assisting exporters and developing export trade:

The pamphlet "The War and After," published by the Canadian Manufacturers' Association in January, 1944, gives, along with other data, detailed information as to what is being done by the various departments, divisions, and committees of the Association in respect to present and post-war export trade. Following is an account of the activities of the Commercial Intelligence Committee and the Sub-Committee on Present and Post-war Foreign Trade:

Export Trade; Mutual Aid; Relief and Rehabilitation; Exchange Stabilization.

1. On January 29, 1943, the Commercial Intelligence Committee, which had been following these matters for some time, reported to the Executive Council as follows:

> "As Canada exports approximately twenty-five per cent of her production of products, raw materials and manufactured goods, all negotiations in regard to post-war international trade are of vital interest. While it is realized that our position in international trade will be determined in some measure by international trade agreements and a common programme for economic co-operation which may be worked out between the United Nations, it is also a fact that our future position is now being shaped to some extent by international arrangements for carrying on the war. As generally happens, it is reasonable to assume that private enterprise will play a large part in recovering, restoring and extending markets."

2. The submissions by the Association to the Senate Committee on Post-war Reconstruction and re-establishment on April 14, 1943, included among many points related to export trade the following statements:

(a) "The maintenance of industrial employment in this country is vitally dependent on markets abroad and the establishment of sound principles of international trade."

(b) "There will, undoubtedly, be a demand from abroad for food, raw materials and reconstruction goods, many of which Canada will be in a good position to furnish. Also, it can be assumed that overseas countries will try to regain their former standard of living and then improve it."

3. At the 72nd Annual General Meeting of the Association in June, 1943, a number of the leading speakers from Canada, Great Britain and the United States dealt with various phases of post-war international trade and finance.

4. On September 3, 1943, a circular was issued to all members announcing the policy of a Canadian Mutual Aid Board to place "a Canadian insignia" on all war supplies shipped from Canada under the terms of the Mutual Aid Board, and that the Canadian Manufacturers' Association was co-operating in the development of the plan. It was felt that this was a distinct contribution to maintaining and enhancing Canada's prestige abroad as a large industrial and exporting nation.

5. On September 17, 1943, the Commercial Intelligence Committee issued a circular to all members advising that, through Canadian Trade Commissioners abroad, The Canadian Chamber of Commerce in Great Britain, Inc., foreign purchasing missions in Canada and the United States, and as a result of the foreign distribution of the Canadian Trade Index, it was commencing to receive trade enquiries and advance information concerning visits of overseas buyers and agents who were looking ahead in regard to post-war export trade. Interested members were requested to furnish the following information:

(a) What goods they were in a position to export.

(b) Whether they were interested in seeing buyers and agents making exploratory trips to Canada in regard to post-war trade.

The replies received from the circular were summarized, and are now being used by the Commercial Intelligence Department and divisional offices of the Association to establish post-war connections for Canadian manufacturers with overseas firms. The summary has also been forwarded to the Department of Trade and Commerce in Ottawa, and The Canadian Chamber of Commerce in Great Britain, Inc.

Trade enquiries received direct from firms abroad in respect to post-war trade are published each month in Industrial Canada.

Special Sub-committee Formed

6. After the 72nd Annual General Meeting of the Association in June, the Chairman of the Commercial Intelligence Committee appointed a Sub-Committee on Present and Post-War Foreign Trade, composed of thirty members experienced in export trade and representative of various industries across Canada.

A circular was issued to all members advising of the formation of this Committee and requesting information as to the difficulties they had encountered in maintaining certain markets which they considered might be solved without affecting the war effort, as well as suggestions as to how commercial contacts in overseas countries might be maintained.

The data received was assembled and studied and On October 6, 1943, a brief, "Canada's Present and Post-War Export Trade," was submitted to the Government. The brief was also issued in pamphlet form and given a wide distribution. It dealt in detail with the following matters:

(a) The enterprise and resourcefulness of Canadians being the greatest asset in the recovery and expansion of our external trade.

(b) The importance of obtaining efficient and low-cost production to manufacture high quality goods for what will be a highly competitive world market.

(c) To maintain Canada in the best possible competitive position in the post-war period, essential new basic machinery of the most modern type should be retained in this country.

(d) The adaptation of new Canadian industrial developments in products and processes to export trade.

(e) The allocation of percentages of materials and products to maintain commercial contacts abroad.

(f) Canada's official representation in foreign fields.

(g) Mutual Aid.

(h) Canadian representation on any international board or organization that may be set up to allocate commercial exports to countries who may be in a position to pay cash.

(i) The handling of civilian export requirements through private trading channels.

The Government has recently advised that there have been a number of developments in connection with the points raised in the above submissions.

7. As foreign exchange will undoubtedly play a vital part in post-war trade, the Commercial Intelligence Committee submitted to the Executive Council on November 17, 1943, an analysis of the three tentative draft proposals for exchange stabilization published officially from London, Washington and Ottawa.

These plans are similar in some respects but differ widely in others. They all call for the establishment of an international monetary organization which does not attempt to solve domestic problems or provide for long term loans for international relief or reconstruction. They all attempt to reduce international exchange competition by sponsoring policies calculated to obtain some measure of equilibrium in the balance of trade and payments between member nations. They all aim eventually to reduce foreign exchange control on current account transactions, to eliminate bilateral trade agreements, to avoid multiple currencies and blocked balances. They all limit the field of activity of the organization itself to dealings between central banks and fiscal agents of governments and all provide members with the option of withdrawal under certain circumstances. They differ in mechanism on many points such as the monetary unit to be used for international settlements, in the nature of the assets or quotas, in the voting powers of the members, and in the control of the level of exchange rates.

The Canadian view suggests that any arrangements finalized shall be truly multilateral in character, provide international financing facilities, and be truly international in scope.

Public opinion has not yet had time to crystallize on these various views, and various trade organizations have been requested to study them and produce constructive criticism.

The problems of financing the relief, rehabilitation and reconstruction of war-impoverished nations, and the stabilization of post-war currency are now occupying the attention of the best minds in the United Nations. As the solution of these problems will vitally affect the future of Canadian foreign trade the Committee is following the situation closely and will advise members of developments from time to time.

8. The Committee is now collecting information on industrial and economic developments in overseas countries during the war which may affect the character of our future foreign trade, and plans to summarize this data and publish it at a later date.

9. As Canadian industry will be called upon to supply products for relief and rehabilitation of war-impoverished nations, the Committee issued a circular on the policies and operations of the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration.

10. There is little doubt that the solution of many export problems will depend on certain inter-governmental policies which are now being formulated and on plans which will likely emerge from the peace conference for restoring international trade. In the meantime, the Committee is keeping in touch with all developments in connection with export sales to countries which have cash; Mutual Aid, the operation of the Combined Boards; the Supply Committee of the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration; foreign purchasing missions in Canada and the United States; and exchange stabilization plans. Furthermore, it is suggesting to members the advisability of maintaining and renewing old export connections and establishing new contacts which will be of value when trading restrictions are relaxed.

From information received there may be certain overseas trade delegations visiting Canada in the near future and the Association will, as in the past, place its facilities at the disposal of missions who wish to develop trade with Canada.

New Industries, Tools, Products and Processes

During the war the ingenuity and skill of Canadian workers have built new industries and developed new tools, products and processes. Facilities for the production of steel, non-ferrous metals, chemicals, machinery, ships and electrical power have been greatly enlarged. Developments have been taking place in regard to plastics, magnesium, aircraft, electronics, glass, centrifugal casting, refrigeration, dehydration, synthetic fibres, welding, plywoods, machine tools, and control, testing, and measuring devices.

In April, 1943, the Committee made a survey of the plastic industry in Canada as it was felt that this industry might play an important part in Canadian post-war domestic and export trade. The report covered the types of plastic compounds made and used in Canada, the names of Canadian moulders of plastic compounds, Canadian plastic fabricators, processes, types of presses used, Canadian production and import figures, as well as a list of plastic products.

To assist in compiling complete information on industrial developments since 1939 and to provide a guide to possible future trends in industry and research which will likely increase industrial employment after the war, the Committee has recently issued a circular to members asking for specific information regarding new products, processes and techniques which have been developed during the war which might be utilized in peace-time trade, as well as particulars concerning other new civilian products being developed by research departments that might be available.

Explanation of List

THE list beginning on the opposite page comprises the names and addresses, alphabetically arranged, of all firms appearing in the classified section of the Canadian Trade Index. In this list we have tried to give the users of the book some information that will be useful in getting into quick touch with the makers of any desired article.

No street addresses are given in Part III (the classified article section). These are recorded where necessary to complete the address in Part II (the alphabetical list).

We have not attempted to give, in this list, any full account of the products. These will all be found under separate headings in the classified section on pages 347 and following. Where the firm or company name does not indicate clearly the line of goods manufactured, some of the main articles produced, or the nature of the firm's business, are mentioned.

The address given is that of the main place of business in Canada, usually the head office, although it may be both factory and office address. The addresses given later, under "Factories," "Mills," or "Plants" are generally those of branch factories. Branch offices also are given.

For. Rep. or simply Rep. means foreign or other representative for export sales purposes.

The Cable addresses and codes will be found useful in initiating and transacting export business.

Names of new firms received too late for listing in the main body of the blue section will be found under "Additions" at the end of this section.

Guide to Classified Index

THE method of indexing the material on the succeeding pages is that by which the most important word in headings is generally placed first. The arrangement then proceeds in the proper alphabetical order. In the majority of cases it will be found that the noun or main name comes first, i.e.—Furniture, bedroom; Hardware, builders; Leather, boot and shoe upper, etc. This allows the grouping of all similar articles close together. In other cases, where the inversion seems unnatural, the headings have been listed as they run—air appliances; fire escapes, etc. If any difficulty is experienced in locating desired headings or articles, users of the book should try both forms of listing. This will enable the heading to be found if it appears in the book at all.

In all cases we have endeavored to use the names most commonly known. It is possible that we have listed some products and materials under names that differ from those that our subscribers use. Synonyms will therefore be useful to bear in mind.

Cross references have been supplied where two or more names are commonly used to describe the same article.

Street addresses of the firms listed in the classified section are provided where necessary in the alphabetical list of names (on blue sheets) immediately preceding the Classified Section (Part III, pages 347 to 745).

Attention is also called to the French Index of articles, which is placed immediately after the Produce Section (Part IV, pages 747 to 753). In a limited edition a Spanish Index also appears following the French Index.

Firms before whose name an asterisk appears are engaged or seriously interested in Export Trade. However, due to war conditions, many of these firms have discontinued or greatly restricted their export business.

Similarly because of the change over to war production and the consequent allocation of raw materials to war goods, some of the products listed on the following pages may not be available at the present time.

We shall be glad to have the opportunity of giving additional information to any manufacturer or user of the Canadian Trade Index. No charge is made for this service.
